Orthodox Douks Ask Wismer To Halt Terrorism

Three members of the Orthodox Doukhobors' Union of Spiritual Community of Christ sect today talked over with Attorney-General Gordon S. Wismer ways and means to halt terrorism in the West Kootenay district of B.C.

The three, John Verigin, Brilliant; Cecil Koochin, Grand Forks, and Peter Konkin, Tarrys, were assured, they said, that Mr. Wismer would do everything in his power to halt the sect war which has resulted in the burning of homes, barns, schools and community buildings in the west Kootenay section of the province.

Dressed as other British Columbia citizens, the soft-spoken trio conferred with Mr. Wismer for about half an hour in his office at the Parliament Buildings today.

They made no specific suggestions, it would appear, although they asked Mr. Wismer to find ways and means to halt the terrorism, ferret out those responsible for the lawlessness, and to punish them as the law saw fit.

The three blamed the terrorism on the Sons of Freedom sect of the Doukhobors, but said they did not like to call the sect members by this name because it was too good for them. Rather the orthdox Doukhobors would just brand them as fanatics.

Douks, Demand Violence Stop

Attorney-General Gordon S. Wismer today told a three-man delegation from the Doukhobor Union of Spiritual Communities of Christ that everything in his power will be done to halt terrorism in the west Kootenay district of British Columbia. Shown above after the conference are left to right: Cecil Koochin, Grand Forks; John Verigin, Brilliant, and Peter Konkin, Tarrys.

Naval Veterans To Have $40,000 Club Quarters On Broad

The Naval Veterans Branch of the Canadian Legion will soon have new clubrooms at 1417 Broad Street, which will cost $40,000 in conversion work to the building now at that site.

The building permit was taken out today, and the up-to-date clubrooms will be complete with elevator.

H. C. Perram is the architect and L. G. Scott is the contractor.

Attorney-General Represents Crown In Narcotics Case

Attorney-General Gordon Wismer appeared in police court today to represent the Crown at the preliminary hearing of Dr. James P. Vye, West Saanich Road, charged with the illegal sale of narcotics.

The accused was arrested by Royal Canadian Mounted Police on three charges of selling morphine. He is represented by Jack Ruttan.

Dr. Vye displayed very little emotion as a Royal Canadian Mounted Police officer told the court that the accused had agreed to give him morphine in exchange for stolen goods.

Ease Farmers' Tax

OTTAWA (CP)—The Revenue Department has decided to accept the principle that farmers may establish basic herds for income tax purposes and a directive will be issued early in September, it was learned today.

Federal Authorities Consider Raise In Veterans' Allowance

Minister of Veterans Affairs Ian Mackenzie indicated in a letter to the City Council today that consideration is being given by the federal authorities to raising the war veterans' allowance, commonly known as the burned-out pension.

He said the department has received previous suggestions that the allowance be increased and "due consideration will be given to these representations when amendments to the War Veterans' Allowance are being discussed."

Demand For Canadian Workers Exceeds Supply As Industry Expands Rapidly

OTTAWA (CP) — The Labor Department reported today that industrial expansion has been so great that demand for workers now exceeds the supply.

The late spring this year delayed the usual seasonal employment rise, but this resulted in seasonal pressure in July and early August in all industries, and the accompanying demand for workers has created a labor shortage of almost wartime proportions, the department's release said.

A total of 93,000 unplaced applicants were registered with the National Employment Service Aug. 14, with vacancies of 95,000.

PEAK IN SEPTEMBER

"This labor shortage will become even more acute next month," the department added, "since peak activity is not usually reached until the end of September, when agriculture, manufacturing, construction and transportation are working at top capacity.

"The Aug. 14 figure for unplaced applicants was 19,000 below the July 10 level, and 56,000 less than a year ago.

"Unfilled vacancies, at 95,000, compared with 91,000 July 10 and included 62,000 unfilled jobs for men and 33,000 for women.

The department's statement continued:

"The current situation spotlights the problem of matching workers with the jobs available. Geographical dislocation in a country the size of Canada is one great obstacle. While industries in Ontario and Quebec need workers desperately, a surplus of labor still exists in the Maritimes and Pacific regions."

POSITION IN MARITIMES

In the Martimes, there were 15,000 unplaced applicants and 5,000 unfilled vacancies Aug. 14. The labor surplus declined during the month under review, but unemployment "is chronic, not just seasonal, in this region, and there were still three applicants for every vacancy on file.

In Quebec there were 23,000 unplaced applicants and 27,000 unfilled jobs. Industrial activity was at a peak peacetime level.

In Ontario, there were 27,000 unplaced applicants and 40,000 unfilled vacancies Aug. 14. Most industries were boosting production to the limit of available materials and labor.

The prairies had 14,000 unplaced applicants Aug. 14 compared with 16,000 unfilled vacancies. This "highly seasonal region" is approaching its yearly peak.

CALL FOR HARVESTERS

Despite weather which has affected crop prospects, there is still a great demand for eastern harvesters, since this year men will be needed in all three provinces instead of being transferred from one to another as the harvest progresses.

Requirements will be greater and the season much shorter than in a normal year.

Coal miners were needed in Alberta. Firms in the building materials industry were operating at capacity. Pulp and paper mills reported great activity, and construction projects were straining the supply of materials and skilled workers in some areas.

In the Pacic region, there were 14,000 unplaced applicants and 7,000 unfilled vacancies. Seasonal expansion in primary industries was straining manpower resources.

"The excellent state of labor-management relations has enabled most negotiations to be completed without work stoppages," says the report, "and this has contributed greatly to the high level of general employment."

MANY MINERS NEEDED

The mining industry was desperately in need of workers, and if several hundred hard-rock miners could be obtained, they would create jobs for many hundreds of unskilled men.

Current labor demand in the logging industry is heavy, since the possibility of fire hazard has passed. The industrial construction program is continuing to expand, absorbing more and more workers, but "residential building has declined. Skilled carpenters and trowel tradesmen are in short supply."

Negotiations To Settle Strike Of Packinghouse Workers Under Way

TORONTO (CP)—Talks aimed at settlement of the three-day-old strike of 4,000 Swift Canadian Company packinghouse workers were scheduled to resume here today.

Representatives of the company and of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (C.I.O.) met for more than two hours in a hotel room Thursday, but there was no indication that agreement was near on major issues which include a union demand for wage increases in a new master contract.

NO STATEMENT YET

The union's Canadian director, Fred Dowling, said the union had agreed that no statement would be made on the progress of negotiations, but that a joint company-and-union statement would be issued if the talks were successful. Sources close to the situation said it was unlikely settlement would be achieved this week.

As the union maintained picket lines around Swift Canadian plants in Moncton, N.B., Toronto, St. Boniface, Man., Edmonton, Moose Jaw, Sask., and New Westminster, B.C., Ralph Helstein, U.P.W.A. international president, arrived here from Chicago to join the union negotiating team.

The union seeks a wage increase of 15 cents an hour for its members in Toronto and 20 cents for those elsewhere. If granted, these increases would bring the basic rate to 92 cents an hour, union men said.

Settlement of a five-week-old strike at Swift's dairy and poultry plant at Melville, Sask., has been made a union condition of negotiating a new agreement. The union also wants the dairy and poultry plant brought into a master agreement with the meat packing plants.

Meantime representatives of Canada Packers and Burns & Co., two other leading Canadian meat packing firms, continued discussions with U.P.W.A. representatives concerning new contracts.

Air Race Hopes Dashed To Ground

Partners entered in the coming Goodyear Air Race view the remains of their plans as wreckage of their plane lies near Cleveland, Ohio, where it crashed during a training flight. Pilot Claude P. Smith (right) tries hard to hold back tears while his co-partner looks at the wreck heartbroken. Smith, who parachuted to safety after his plane had gone into a spin, ripped his shirt as he climbed out of the cockpit before the jump.

Province To End Daylight Time On Sept. 28

Premier John Hart announced today daylight saving time in British Columbia would end on Sept. 28.

The Premier's announcement will mean that daylight saving time in British Columbia will come to an end on the same date that it will elsewhere in Canada. Under an order-in-council passed last spring daylight saving time in British Columbia was to end Oct. 26.

The government's action followed representations made to the government for a return to standard time in line with the rest of Canada.

The representations were understood to be based on the anticipated confusion which would result in trans-continent transportation schedules and radio broadcasting were British Columbia to continue fast summer time after other provinces of the Dominion.

The changeover, which will involve putting clocks and watches back an hour, will officially take place early the morning of Sept. 28, which is a Sunday.

Link Body Found With One Of 3 Escaped Convicts

PORT HURON, Mich. (AP)—Canadian police were en route here today in an effort to determine whether the bullet-pierced body of an unidentified man was that of Nicholas Minille, one of three long-term convicts who escaped from the Kingston Penitentiary Aug. 18.

The body was found Wednesday in a roadside ditch and Coroner Arthur E. Smith estimated death had occurred two weeks ago.

However, a description of Minille, furnished by Toronto police, tallied in some respects with that of the slain man, Under-Sheriff A. J. Foster said.

Minille escaped from prison with Donald McDonald and Ulysses Lauzon, identified by Windsor, Ont., authorities as the pair who staged a $40,000 hold-up of a bank branch there a week ago.

Minille was not believed by police officials to have taken part in the hold-up and his whereabouts since the jail break have been a mystery.

Further identification awaited a check of the fingerprints and teeth.

B.C. Calls Tenders For U.B.C. Building

Tenders for another building in the University of British Columbia's building program were called today by the provincial public works department.

The latest project is for the agricultural, engineering and mechanics laboratory building which will cost in the neighborhood of $50,000. Tenders will close at noon Sept. 15 when they will be opened at the Parliament Buildings.

B.C.-Ottawa Tax Pact Formally Signed

Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb announced today that he had signed on behalf of British Columbia the Dominion-provincial tax agreement in which B.C. will lease to the Dominion certain taxing rights for a charge in the neighborhood of $20,000,000 a year.

The agreement was authorized by the provincial legislature at the session which ended last April in the "Dominion-Provincial Agreement Act, 1947."

Signing of the agreement marks the formal conclusion of negotiations between British Columbia and the Dominion government dating back to the war's end. The new agreement supercedes a temporary wartime agreement.

Under the terms of the new agreement B.C. gives exclusive rights to the Dominion in its fields of income, corporation income and corporation taxation and succession duties for five years from April 1, 1947. In return the Dominion will pay a minimum rental of $18,120,124 which will increase with the gross national product and population.

It is anticipated that in 1947 the payment will total $21,357,680.

Much Equipment Sent

HALIFAX (CP)—More than 50 tons of equipment, valued at $15,000, was moved into northern Cape Breton to help victims of the recent forest fire, army authorities reported today.

May Be Making For U.S. Border Police Report

VANCOUVER (CP)—Hunted like a wild animal in a bush-covered Surrey district, Walter Pavulkoff, 35-year-old ex-convict sought for the slaying of a bank manager here, was believed to be making a desperate bid today to reach the United States border.

Men and bloodhounds beat through the dense bush as police reinforcements, dressed in civilian work clothes, joined the search during the morning.

It was indicated the sought man had doubled back on the edge of an isolated, wooded road during the hours of darkness, and then started to work his way southward. The boundary, bordering the State of Washington, is less than 15 miles from the search area.

The search advanced toward the edge of the bushy section, and before long it was expected the fugitive would be forced into open country.

REPORT FROM CAMP

While the search centred in Surrey on the banks of the Fraser River 20 miles east of here, a report came from Hope, B.C., that a "suspicious character" answering the description of Pavlukoff had been sighted on the Hope-Princeton highway. He was reported to have called at a construction camp seeking food.

British Columbia police at Hope, 80 miles east of Vancouver, now are investigating the report.

Officers in the Surrey hunt are armed with machine guns and tear gas bombs. Police believe Pavlukoff is armed.

The first helicopter used in British Columbia police history had hovered over the district Thursday as the officers—Vancouver, Provincial and R.C.M.P.—pressed their search.

It began when a rancher, Pat Ritchie, said he had seen Pavlukoff, named in a warrant as the man who shot Sydney S. Petrie, 55, manager of a branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, run out of a chicken house earlier in the day. Police immediately threw a cordon around the area and pressed every resource into the grim game of hide-and-seek.

INQUEST VERDICT

Meanwhile at Vancouver, a coroner's jury returned a verdict of "murder by an unknown male" after a five-minute inquiry into the slaying. The Canadian Bankers' Association has posted a reward of $5,000 for the arrest and conviction of the slayer.

No police evidence was presented at the inquest, but one witness, accountant Robert E. Snowden, said Mr. Petrie apparently had not known for some minutes that he had been shot in the abdomen.

Snowden said he asked the manager, after the bandit had fired a single shot, whether he had been hit.

"No, I don't think so," Mr. Petrie replied as he started toward the vault for a revolver with which to pursue the gunman. He died in hospital less than an hour later.

Big Drop In Immigration During Last Six Months; No War Brides

OTTAWA (CP) — A drop of 12,501 was reported today by the Resources Department in the number of immigrants who entered Canada during the first six months of this year compared with the corresponding period of 1946.

The department's immigration branch reported that the total for the six-month period this year had fallen by 36.9 per cent to 21,413 from 33,914 who came to this country in the six months ended June 30, 1946.

BIGGEST DROP

The largest decline was in United Kingdom immigrants, whose total fell from 24,909 a year ago to 13,068 this year and this indicated the fall-off could be attributed largely to the cessation of the migration of British war brides who came to Canada in 1946.

A smaller decline was shown in immigrants from the United States, whose total eased from 5,227 to 4,515.

Immigration from northern European races showed the only increase, climbing by 63.7 per cent from 1,604 in the 1946 period to 2,626 this year. The biggest gain was among Dutch entrants, who totaled 1,720 this year against 247 last.

OTHER RACES DECLINED

The total for all other races declined to 1,204 from 2,174.

During the 1947 period, the bulk of the immigrants—10,068—went to Ontario. Another 3,434 went to British Columbia, 3,003 to Quebec, 1,444 to Alberta, 983 to Nova Scotia, 955 to Manitoba, 848 to Saskatchewan, 358 to New Brunswick and 104 to Prince Edward Island.

Canada Affected By France's Cut In Imports From Dollar Nations

PARIS (Reuter)—French imports from dollar countries, including Canada, are to be reduced by two-thirds in the second half of this year, it was officially announced today.

The announcement followed an emergency meeting of the inter-ministerial economic commission.

The commission decided that importation of the following products would be suspended indefinitely from next Monday: Gasoline, cotton, lumber, paper pulp, machine parts and non-ferrous metals.

Imports to be continued would be: Coal, wheat, secondary cereals, fats and fuel oil, and "all imports of value to French colonial territories." These were not specified.

MAY RATION CLOTHES

Informed circles believed suspension of cotton imports would result in textiles being put back on the rationed basis, from which they were removed a month ago.

The French dollar import slash was attributed officially to a $260,000,000 deficit in the $450,000,000 import program drawn up some time ago for the second half of 1947.

Difficulties of the French export trade would be accentuated by the new general price increase, which would be authorized by the government immediately because of higher wages.

Clerk Faces Trial On Theft Charges

SYDNEY MINES, N.S. (CP)—Miss Phyllis Bond, 36-year-old department store clerk charged with stealing $10,000 worth of merchandise from her employer, was committed for trial Thursday after police had read a statement in which she was alleged to have told them she had taken goods "home without paying for them."

The short, plump brunette, who worked for the British-Canadian Co-operative Society for 17 years, will go on trial in October for theft of the goods which police said filled two trucks.

The case, which has become a sensation in this north Cape Breton County mining town, brought so many to the preliminary hearing that Magistrate Verne Read had to hold court in the town council chamber, where 500 spectators, mostly women, crowded the benches.

Miss Bond, who was to have been married Wednesday to John MacQueen of nearby Sidney, appeared composed throughout the hearing.

'Architects Of Castrophe' On Trial In Nuernberg War Crimes Court

Charged with major responsibility for World War II, mass plunder and murder, 22 former officials of the I. G. Farben German cartel were called "architects of catastrophe" by the prosecution as their trial began at Nuernberg. Above are court pictures of former figures in the Krupp organization. Six of them are, left to right, top: Alfred Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach, Hans Kupke, Max Ihn; bottom: Karl Pfirsch, Heinrich Lehmann, Fredrich von Buelow.

Montreal 'Jungle' Slaying Probed; Witness Held

MONTREAL (CP) — Police pressed their inquiry into the "jungle" slaying of 43-year-old Cecile Carriere and held as an important witness for a coroner's inquest today 31-year-old Armand Chartrand.

Police described Chartrand as a "jungle sleeper," a man whose home is the wooded area of Mount Royal, rising above midtown Montreal.

Miss Carriere died Thursday and police allege her death was due to a beating received at the hands of a man during a rendezvous two weeks ago in the mountain "jungle" area.

Sgt. Dets. Gerald Lawton and Art Charron took Chartrand into custody after finding him in Fletcher's Field, a wide expanse of park on the fringe of the mountain where many down-and-outers hole up for the night during the warm sunny weather.

Miss Carriere's body was found Thursday by a friend, 45-year-old Paul Frison, who visited her room in the tawdry, run-down area of St. Lawrence Boulevard known as "The Main."

According to detectives, Miss Carriere had joined a man, now held as a witness, in a Mountain rendezvous two weeks ago. Chartrand, so the story goes as pieced together by police, came on the scene and objected to the meeting and allegedly beat the woman.

Frison said he had known the victim for five years. But, he told police, he had not been seeing her at her home for several months.

He called there yesterday morning. Miss Carriere complained of pains in her head and ribs. She wore smoked glasses to hide blackened eyes, and her face bore the blue marks of bruises.

Frison told police she was ailing but alive when he left her. He returned to the rom for lunch and found her dead.

Dr. Jeanmarie Roussel, medico-legal expert, said the woman died as a result of repeated blows on the head and he gave cause of death as a cerebral hemorrhage.

Western Director Of CBC Resigning

MONTREAL (CP)—Dr. Augustin Frigon, general manager of the CBC, today announced the resignation of Jean Marie Beaudet as western regional director for the corporation.

Former Quebec regional director, Mr. Beaudet has resigned to devote his full time to music, Dr. Frigon said. No announcement was made concerning a successor.

Mr. Beaudet returned to Montreal from Vancouver a month ago, not long after having assumed his western post. CBC officials said then they understood he had returned east to settle some personal business.

Cartel had world-wide espionage system, the prosecution declared. Three defendants from left, are: George von Schnitzer, Dr. Karl von Krauch and Herman Schmitz. Brig.-Gen. Taylor, allied prosecutor, said they were "magicians who made fantasies of Mein Kampf come true."

B.C.'s Scenery Brings Printer Here From Scotland

B.C.'s glorious scenery and a good local promoter of it are the reasons why John Lynas of Innellan, Argyllshire, is sitting at a Times linotype machine today.

Up to a short time ago, Mr. Lynas was working for the Glasgow Citizen in Scotland, but letters from his sister, Mrs. T. Cuthbertson, 244 Robertson Street, telling of the beauties of the countryside here were enough to convince Mr. Lynas, his wife and two daughters, 19-year-old Margaret and 16-year-old Caroline, that this is the place to live.

The family flew over from Prestwick, Scotland, to eastern Canada and then took the train across the continent, stopping at Vancouver to pay a week's visit with another sister, Miss Margaret Lynas.

It is not Mr. Lynas' first visit to this coast. He was in Vancouver 21 years ago, but lack of work forced him to return to his homeland.

This time he's back here to stay and is very pleased about it. Major items now are the tastiness of the food here and the quantity of it. The distaff side of the Lynas family is also pleased with the shops and the number of goods for sale.

Victoria Good Example

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Mayor George Wenige called on Londoners to show more courtesy to visitors today, pointing out that rushing for buses often did not save time. He said his suggestion was precipitated by reports from Victoria and west coast cities that courtesy there was looked upon as a civic duty and that citizens did not jostle their neighbors there.

The Studio of Mrs. Marion Mac. Govern will not reopen until further notice. ***

Streetcars To Become Bunkhouses

A new use for old streetcar chassis will be found by Mayo Singh of the Summit Lumber Co. who has purchased two from the B.C. Electric Railway Co. to use as bunkhouses at a lumber camp approximately half way between Duncan and Cowichan Lake. One of the streetcar bodies was taken up island Thursday by Heaney's Cartage and the other is scheduled to be moved today.

Warm Comment On Industries' Plans To Rebuild Economy

LONDON (CP)—The 11-point "last chance" program for British economic survival, submitted by the powerful Federation of British Industries to Prime Minister Attlee, drew favorable reaction from several leading newspapers today.

The plan, heavily pegged on rebuilding German industry as a basis for European recovery under the Marshall aid program, was presented to the government Thursday as nearly 25,000 miners, producing approximately 150,000 tons of coal a week, left their Yorkshire coal pits in a mushrooming sympathy strike against a National Coal Board move to enforce an order for more production in one mine.

These developments followed the government's decree Tuesday, trimming the food and gasoline ration and foreign travel in an attempt to cut by one-third the country's foreign trade deficit, estimated currently to total about £650,000,000 ($2,600,000,000) annually.

The Federation of British Industries urged all possible steps to set up European economic collaboration, including the export of coal which Britain is mining in such short quantity that even her own industries lack fuel.

The federation, whose membership includes major British industrialists, asked that coal production be increased from the current 195,000,000 tons and urged the relaxation of some governmental controls over industry.

FIRE RAGES IN NATIONAL FOREST—One man was reported dry brush in the Angelus National Forest two miles from Tujunga, Calif. Strong winds drove 280 fire fighters and several Los Angeles county fire companies back to safety as the fire swept up the dead and several others injured in a fire that raged through tinder-canyon walls toward Mt. Lukens.

New Crisis Believed Imminent As Trail Bars Radical Douks

NELSON (CP)—A new crisis appeared imminent today in the strange terrifying sect war between rival factions of B.C.'s 20,000 Doukhobors as the smelter city of Trail issued an order virtually barring the radical Sons of Freedom group from the city limits and the "Sons" scheduled their second straight mass meeting in the strife-ridden orthodox city of Shoreacres, 18 miles west of here.

Tension mounted in the West Kootenay district despite a sudden break in the two-day outbreak of six known or suspected attacks that caused damage estimated at more than $30,000. There were no new reports of fires or violence overnight.

At Trail, some 45 miles southwest of Nelson, Police Chief John Laurie completed arrangements to halt the movement of the "Sons" into the city following an emergency meeting of the police commission Thursday night to prevent the spread of the fantastic wave of violence and arson to the interior B.C. centre. The commissioned empowered Chief Laurie to take "all steps necessary" to keep the "Sons" from the city, including the swearing in of additional reinforcements.

At Nelson Police Chief Robert Harshaw said he was keeping a watchful eye on the situation, but no special arrangements had been made.

Meanwhile the "Sons," ousted from the orthodox group more than 20 years ago for refusal to pay taxes on communal-owned land, issue a signed statement Thursday night annoupcing they would continue their "movement" through every Doukhobor settlement in Canada in a drive to win new supporters from orthodox ranks.

Written in long-hand on a sheet of yellow paper, the statement claimed the present "terror and turmoil" involved all Doukhobors regardless of group and should not be blamed on the Sons of Freedom alone.

It charged the government with failure to fulfill promises of freedom of religion and exemption from military service for Doukhobors when they emigrated to Canada from Russia in 1898, and the statement declared schools would continue to be destroyed because their principal teachings were "militarism and citizenship."

Strike Ends; Liner Sails

NEW YORK (AP)—The liner America sailed for Europe Thursday with 317 passengers after an eight-day delay caused by a wildcat strike of longshoremen.

A spokesman for the United States Lines, operator of the vessel, said the strike cost the company more than $2,000,000. He said the 317 passengers were less than one-third of the total capacity.

The strike was settled Monday when a dissident group accepted union terms, originally agreed on before the wildcat walkout.

$600 A Month Awarded

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Over the objections of dancer Carlotti Monti, W. C. Fields' long-time friend and confidante, the comedian's widow, Harriet, Thursday was awarded an allowance of $600 a month from the late actor's estate.

The order, retroactive to last May 28, was issued by Superior Judge Harold B. Jeffrey after a brief hearing in which Mrs. Fields testified that during the last 14 months of his life, Fields paid her only $40 a week for her support and added, "I just barely got by." She said that she and Fields, who died last Dec. 25, had lived apart for 40 years.

COAL AND POLITICS

AT A TIME WHEN GREAT BRITAIN requires every ton of coal she can get out of the pits to feed her industries and improve her economic condition—to say nothing of meeting the threat of insufficient fuel for her homes next winter—something like 25,000 miners this morning were not at work. Under normal conditions these men bring approximately 150,000 tons of "black diamonds" to the surface every week. But they have rebelled against an order issued by the National Coal Board—a creation of the Labor administration under its nationalization policy—which required an increase of work on the coal-face by each shift. The men immediately affected by this instruction objected and forthwith struck. Others have joined in sympathy. What is especially significant, however, is that Mr. Will Lawther, president of the National Union of Mineworkers, issued a statement yesterday in which he said that if the National Coal Board had done less than sack the recalcitrants it would not have been doing its duty.

Complementary to the view expressed by this veteran miners' leader are some comments from the Yorkshire Post, which quotes a miner as saying that "the real reason for the strike is that the men feared the increased stint would make some men redundant," and that "if the Coal Board gets fewer men to do the same work, the displaced men would probably be directed to other pits, as there is no more coal-face room" at the Grimethorpe colliery to which the official order was directed. Outside observers of the economic dilemma which is facing Great Britain will regard this as strange reasoning on the part of those employed in an industry, the acceleration of production from which is essential to national survival as a great exporting country, to say nothing of the vital importance of coal—and more of it—to keep all the mechanical wheels of the nation running.

This latest development in Britain's coal mining industry, incidentally, brings into striking relief the basic fact that a Socialist government, depending for its political existence on an extensive nationalization program—which it promised the electors two years ago—cannot evade the responsibility of moving the workers from place to place as economic conditions appear to warrant. But the Yorkshire miners evidently are averse to the prospect of such an invasion of their freedom. Nor is any working Briton likely to take kindly to any species of being "pushed around" that may be determined either by the National Coal Board or any other agency set up by the Attlee administration. But the head of the government and his cabinet colleagues will naturally remind the workers who represent a very substantial element of the electorate that their votes in the early summer of 1945 were responsible for the establishment of such industrial formulae as were thought desirable to apply in the Yorkshire coal mining areas at present involved in a new coal "crisis."

SEEN MORE CLEARLY

THOSE WHO USED TO ARGUE THAT inter-religious conflicts and racial disputes were kept alive in India only by the presence of the British, who fomented such troubles for their own ulterior purposes, will have to look a little farther for an active cause now that Britain has withdrawn her officials and troops and turned over full administration to native leaders. News reports tell of unceasing murders and massacres between the Moslems of Pakistan and the Sikhs and Hindus of India proper, now being conducted on a scale that approaches civil war.

The crux of the problem appears to be in the Punjab, where the newly-drawn line of division between the two Dominions has left many Sikh shrines and holy places within the borders of the predominantly Moslem Dominion of Pakistan. Both factions, according to the reports, have been carrying out organized forays. Murder, rape, arson and armed train hold-ups have thrown large areas into terror. Hundreds of refugees making their way to the common border from both Dominions in order to cross into the area of their own faith, have been cut off and slaughtered, with each incident leading to further reprisals.

The whole world will deplore the blood bath which has attended the creation of the two new members of the British Commonwealth. Angry memories are being manufactured in these troublous days that conceivably militate substantially against any measure of peaceful co-operation between the Dominions concerned. Eventual amalgamation, which was hoped for by many of the sponsors of independent nationhood for India, may well have been killed for generations to come. But the whole service and achievement of British authority in India will now be seen in better perspective, and the arguments of those who castigated it so bitterly—frequently without any intimate knowledge of the situation—will find less and less support in the light of subsequent developments.

LIGHTENING THE LOAD

POSTWAR DEVELOPMENTS HAVE illustrated as never before the interdependence of national economies in this ever-shrinking world. We have, for instance, the current proposal of Britain and the United States to relieve the tax burden on their own citizens by increasing the German production of steel. The raised production level would enable the Anglo-American occupation zone to export more, thus providing more funds with which to buy food. British and United States shipments of food and other supplies, paid for by the taxpayers at home, could to this extent be reduced. The production level for the zones involved would be restored by the move to approximately that of 1936.

The mere decision to increase German steel production and the carrying out of the program, of course, involve more than appears on the surface. The steel quota boost substantially increases the maximum set by the level-of-industry and reparations agreement of March, 1946, and it restores to Germany a large part of the heavy production capacity on which her war potential could be based. To this extent the increase is opposed by France, which sees any rebirth of German heavy industry as a future war threat. It seems inescapable, however, that the former Reich's economy is the key to European industrial recovery. Safety apparently will have to lie in extended supervision and control by the occupying powers rather than in the curtailment of production which is badly needed by all.

ENCOURAGING TREND

WHAT AMERICAN WOMEN THINK OF the future may be no true index of the opinions of their Canadian feminine cousins. It would seem, however, that the conclusions reached by the former are based on written and radio material with which the latter are deluged. On the basis of this hypothesis, the results of a survey conducted by the Woman's Home Companion may be of interest to more than our neighbors. That magazine finds an increasing optimism among American womanhood over the possibilities of peace. Less than half those questioned believe the prospects are good. But the percentage this year is 47 against a meagre 18 in 1946. This appears constructive—and a good example of emergence from panic thinking to a more sober consideration of the elements which constitute dangers to global welfare.

Nor is the optimism of American women limited to the growing number who believe the one great calamity can be avoided. According to the survey, 83 per cent hold the view that their children will have a better world than they had; 73 per cent think that the influence of religion will become stronger; 99 per cent expect physical comforts will be raised; and 78 per cent are convinced that racial relations will improve.

In a recent and more cynical era this might pass for wishful thinking. Today it holds the promise of providing a fruitful soil for the emergence of the improvements with which the survey dealt. There could be, and probably will be, disappointments for those who look on the brighter side of things. And it may be seriously questioned if an increase in American creature comforts will materially benefit a distressed and sorrowing world. Yet the point must be clear to those among whom the survey was made that the realization of the expectations they have voiced depends to a substantial degree on their ability to bring improvement to the less fortunate nations. In her present position of world leadership the United States has accepted that as one of her responsibilities.

There is reassurance in the opinion voiced by women who answered questions put to them. The fact that their replies do not represent a false sense of security will be generally appreciated. The attitude revealed should do much to counteract the destructive influence of pessimists whose outlook promotes a negative response to efforts toward a better world.

ANOTHER GRAB?

REPORTED PLANS TO TRANSFER offices of the B.C. Law Society to Vancouver at the beginning of next month, with the actual physical change to be completed in November, have aroused general resentment among those interests in Victoria which regard this city as the natural and traditional home of that body. Arguments that have been advanced to support the move seem, at first glance, completely casuistic. The suggestion that Vancouver Benchers feel greater convenience would be the result, can surely have little weight. Under existing arrangements, the Benchers meet in Vancouver whenever occasion demands.

It has been pointed out that headquarters of such societies throughout the Dominion are, by custom, located in the respective capitals. Very definite advantages are indicated in that policy. It places the governing agency of the legal fraternity in close proximity to the legislative buildings and spells conveniences of considerable import through a ready accessibility of one set of offices to the other. Moreover, quarters for the law society are available here, and presumably it would be necessary to rent similar accommodation in Vancouver.

The reported transfer plan appears—much as we hesitate to use the term in reference to such an august assembly—to be another grab on Vancouver's part. The case for the change has not been proved.

If you wonder what vaudeville was like, listen to the singing of Broadway stars; they sound as much alike as though singing through the same nose.

Apart From Detours

By JAMES H. GRAY

Condensed from a CBC Broadcast

I'M THE KIND OF character that tourist bureau managers dream about. I read all the travel ads, and all the gaudy tourist literature I can get my hands on. Then as soon as I can get the money together, I do something about it. In short, I'm an incurable tourist. So if there is a tourist bureau manager in the house I'd like to tell him this. I'd trade all the tourist literature and sucker bait I have ever seen for a place to park my car in any Canadian city, or for a clean rest room when and where I want it, or even for a street sign that was planted out in the open and readable from both sides.

Millions of dollars are spent yearly on this continent to attract tourists, to entice people like me to come to your town, city or province to spend my money. And when I do come the whole community organizes itself into a sort of posse to chase me around, frustrate my desires to spend my money and send me away vowing never again to return.

I THINK IT'S SAFE to say this, touring around the United States spoils you for touring Canada. You can't help making comparisons, and the comparisons are always pretty odious. I wouldn't mention this except for the fact that we spend so much effort enticing Americans across the border.

One thing I discovered, to my everlasting delight, was the fact that when you hit an American city in a car with a foreign or out-of-town license plate, they expect you to take liberties with their parking laws. Indeed they even invite you to do it. Richmond, Virginia is as good an illustration as any. If you come from Canada, or New York, or even from Norfolk, the traffic cop will look at the license plate and pay no attention to the fact that you have left your car in a restricted area while shopping. This seemed to me an eminently sensible arrangement. The next time I drove down to Toronto from Ottawa I tried it and got bawled out by a Toronto policeman.

THE DIRECTIONS FOR tourists are inadequate everywhere. I often wonder why our cities can't take some space at the city limits and put up large billboards giving directions to tourists. Hotels do advertise on billboards. But instead of telling you how to reach them they give street addresses which for a tourist come under the heading of completely useless information. Why not a community billboard divided into three sections. One would be headed where are you going. The next would give the location. The third would tell you how to get there. Then the routes through the city might be marked the way the highways are marked today.

PART OF THE EXPLANATION of our frustration lies in the fact, I suppose, that we aren't too bright anyway. If we were a little brighter, and a little less gullible, we wouldn't go wandering around the country in search of the advertised wonders, which never turn out as advertised. Yet wander we do. But heaven help us if we should pause for a moment in Windsor to try and get our bearings for a frontal assault on the tunnel entrance. That moment's pause will set off an explosion of auto horns behind you that sounds like the trumpets at Jericho. I've been scared half to death trying to get my bearing at intersections all over this continent.

And speaking of traffic arteries, how are the streets in your town these days? Have they fixed the pot holes that jarred my teeth loose the last time I was through? I don't know anything better designed to make a tourist hate a place than badly maintained streets. You'll be zinging along on a nice highway enjoying life until you come to a Canadian city and are jarred into a frenzy by hidden holes in the streets. In Ontario, the department of highways warn you when to expect rough roads. But in the cities and towns you are on your own.

PEOPLE OF THE WEST, of course, would be right at home among these pot holes. You really have to drive over our roads, what we call highways out here, to believe them. But for my money—far more dangerous than potholes are truck drivers. I don't know any place where the comparisons between Canadian and American experience are as striking as in the behavior of truck drivers.

On American highways the men who drive the big inter-state and inter-city trucks are the most courteous drivers on the roads. They are good drivers. They stay in line, and on their own side of the road. They signal always on turns and stops. They are impeccable in their highway manners. They always dim their lights. In short, they're everything their Canadian counterparts are not. You know, when one of these big fellows is approaching, that he is going to give you at least half the road.

MAKE THE SAME assumption between Montreal and Ottawa, or between Ottawa and Toronto and you'll wind up dead in the ditch. Like too many ordinary Canadian motorists, they ride the crown of the road and they cut corners on turns. They don't obey the speed laws, they use the horn instead of the brake. They make driving a nightmare.

There was a time of course when all this boorishness was true on American highways. But that was before the owners of the trucks and buses tumbled on the fact that such a thing as goodwill existed.

Unwelcome Escorts

Independent India---A Glance At History

By WICKHAM STEED

ON AUGUST 15, 1947, when British rule in India formally came to an end and power was transferred to the governments of the Indian Union and Pakistan, 88 years, 9 months and 14 days had elapsed since the first Viceroy, Lord Canning, issued at Allahabad on Nov. 1, 1858, a Royal Proclamation stating that Queen Victoria had assumed the government of India.

By this proclamation force was given to the "Act for Better Government of India" which transferred power from the East India Company to the Crown. The Act provided also that India should be governed by and in the name of the Sovereign of England through the principal Secretary of State assisted by a council, and that the governor-general should be styled "Viceroy." Thus, after some two and a half centuries, "Company Rule" was replaced by Royal Rule which Disraeli transformed, into Imperial Rule by adding the title "Empress of India" to Queen Victoria's Royal style in 1875.

PUBLIC OPINION SCORED

The mutiny of 1857 had sealed the fate of the East India Company. Public opinion demanded that government in India be brought more nearly into accord with the principles prevailing in Britain's political life. Yet, salutary though the change was felt to be, a twinge of regret remained in many minds in Britain at the closing of one era and the opening of another in Britain's connection with India. Great names like Clive, Warren Hastings, Cornwallis, Wellesley and Lawrence were among those of the men who had established the East India Company as a real successor to the Mogul Empire.

The Mogul Empire had formed the climax of the Muslim invasions of India which began in 664 within 32 years of the death of Muhammed. Like other invaders before them the Muslims—came overland. Not until 1498 did the ship of Portuguese Admiral Vasco da Gama double the Cape of Good Hope and reach Calicut on the Malabar coast. In the name of the King of Portugal, he and his successors laid the foundations of the Portuguese power in India and organized the monopoly of oriental trade which the Portuguese held from 1500 to 1600.

This monopoly was first broken by the Dutch early in the 17th century. They also amalgamated in 1602 a number of private companies for trade with the East into the "United East India Company of the Netherlands." But by degrees Dutch supremacy in trade with India proper was in its turn broken by the English.

PIONEER ENGLISHMEN

As early as 1583 four English merchants had gone overland to India as mercantile adventurers.

Then, after the defeat of the Spanish Armada in 1598—at a time when the Crowns of Portugal and Spain were united—Queen Elizabeth founded the English Company of Merchants "trading into the East Indies" and sent out the first expedition of four ships in 1601. Out of this enterprise the East India Company grew. Its vessels met and defeated the Portuguese in 1612 and established the first English settlement on the Indian mainland.

During the 17th century the trade and influence of the company gradually surpassed those of the Dutch and were checked only by the Mogul Empire. But when that Empire decayed from within and anarchy supervened, the English traders took up arms in their own defence and finally established themselves in the place of the Moguls. Much hard fighting and many reverses accompanied this process, particularly in the wars against the French who held Deccar and dominated other regions. The contest with the French ended with the loss of all French possessions except Chandernagore, Pondicherry, Karakul and Mahe, thus leaving the British to become the dominant power throughout India.

Not until 1858, nearly a century later was the rule of the East India Company replaced by British Royal Rule. As from August 15 of this year, the Royal authority is exercised through the King's sanction of the choice of Governors-General of the Indian Union and Pakistan by their independent Governments. The first Governor-General is Lord Mountbatten of the Indian Union, and Mr. Jinnah of Pakistan.

MOUNTBATTEN SUCCESS

It is due to the outstanding merit of Lord Mountbatten as last British Viceroy that each of the new Dominions found itself equipped on August 15 with the essential elements of an administrative structure. With him have worked devotedly the leaders of the Hindu and Muslim Communities. Parallel cabinets sat in Delhi to make ready for the transfer of power. Provincial Governors were chosen, two of them British. The great transformation has now taken place.

While it would be untrue to say that this transformation has caused no searchings of heart among the people of Britain, they have accepted and even welcomed it as the consistent vindication of their good faith in desiring the progress of the peoples of India towards freedom.

One gladdening fact has tended of late to lessen Britain's anxiety about the transfer of power. It is that in the difficult and delicate process of arranging the transfer Indian Party leaders have shown a high degree of statesmanlike moderation. Public opinion in Britain trusts that equal moderation will continue to mark both the relations between the two new Indian Dominions and their political and administrative action in their respective spheres of government.

'Space Ships' To Patrol The World

THE U.S. Navy will launch the Neptune, the most powerful rocket yet known, sometime in 1948. It will be the first complete symbol of American advance in the international scramble to develop atomic-powered space ships, from which the world can either be destroyed or policed.

This is revealed by Captain Caleb B. Laning, U.S. Navy, and Lieutenant Robert A. Heinlein, U.S. Navy, retired, in a signed article in the current issue of Collier's. Both are rocket experts, and Captain Laning himself is the air forces' nominee for chairman of the Joint Army-Navy Radar Committee.

The Neptune is the product of two years' joint research by the army and navy and civilian scientists. "It will have a top speed of better than a mile-and-a-half per second," the navy officers write, "and will carry scientific instruments twice as far out into space as the best (German) V-2 will do."

SPACE FLIGHT INEVITABLE

They report that the Neptune will be built for research purposes, not bombardment, and that "space flight" is not only "technically possible" but "inevitable."

"Once developed, space travel can and will be the source of supreme military power over this planet," Captain Laning and Lieutenant Heinlein say. "And over the entire solar system—for there is literally no way to strike back from ground, sea or air, at a space ship, whereas the space ship armed with atomic weapons can wipe out anything on this globe."

In a description of the operation of a hypothetical space ship, the United Nations' ship Jupiter, the naval officers tell how it bases on the moon and services rockets which, loaded with atomic bombs, constantly fly through space and patrol the world. They prophesy that, if the United States "continue to back rocket science," such space ship operations are likely in 20 years.

INDEFINITE DURATION

"These rockets circle through the sky without power of any sort," Captain Laning and Lieutenant Heinlein report. "This may seem strange, but they are actually artificial satellites, tiny moons of the earth. . . . Once in place, with proper heading and speed, a body will circle the earth indefinitely.

"They are the 'prowl cars' of the peace patrol. As few as a dozen of them can form so tight a network over the globe that no spot on earth is ever more than an hour away from the swift punishment of the (United Nations') Security Council."

MORAL REASONS

In urging continued rocket and space ship research, Captain Laning and Lieutenant Heinlein speak of the "high moral reason of scientific research and exploration in the Arctic and the Antarctic, in the stratosphere."

"What can we expect to find?" they ask. "Well—what is on the other side of the moon? Whence come the cosmic rays? What off-the-earth factors are there in major weather changes? Is there life on sister planets? . . .

"But these are side issues," they add. "We must drive ahead because our children must inherit a space corps to stay alive."

Global Survey

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

A.P. Foreign News Analyst

A SCHOOLCHILDREN'S questionnaire 16 years ago on the diminishing popularity of pie will have a direct effect upon future American foreign policy.

For its disclosure that housewives were substituting ice cream and cookies for pie in their youngsters' diets helped a Pekin, Ill., baker to decide to become a politician. Fewer pies might mean an end to a bakery's profits, so Everett Dirksen reasoned he'd better switch to a different career.

That decision took Dirksen, a Republican, to Congress and to a dominating place on the powerful House of Representatives Appropriations Committee which has a yes-or-no voice over all government spending—including that for foreign aid programs.

Dirksen now is on his way to Europe as chairman of a joint House Appropriations-Armed Services Investigating Committee, off for a first-hand survey of military and economic conditions abroad. The committee will report to Congress upon its return.

In Dirksen's pocket is a blank cheque aimed at insuring co-operation of United States authorities overseas and that of foreign officials eager for American financial help.

It is in the form of an open letter of introduction signed by Representative John Taber (Rep., N.Y.), chairman of the Appropriations Committee and the Republican axe-man for chopping down government spending.

There never has been any lack of appreciation among United States officials as to Taber's powers. And foreign officials have become increasingly aware of them.

WIDE POWER

Taber and Dirksen generally are credited (or blamed) for dictating the committee's major decisions. Thus, Dirksen's mission takes on increased significance to foreign countries.

For, under the constitution, all money bills must originate in the House. But before they reach the floor, their form is determined by the Appropriations Committee and, even before that, by a powerful sub-committee upon which both Taber and Dirksen sit.

This means that any financial program to carry out the Marshall Plan for Europe's economic reconstruction will have to get an okay from the sub-committee. That is the reason Dirksen's findings are important to future foreign policy.

Dirksen will concentrate primarily on the problems of Germany because he feels that to get the rest of Europe back on its feet the German industrial machine must be geared to heavy but closely supervised production.

In his five weeks' survey, he plans to go down into the Ruhr mines to see what is needed to get out more coal. He wants to find out how much more steel Germany should be allowed to produce, what Germany's transportation system lacks, what can be done to get fertilizer manufactured by the Germans.

Before leaving, Dirksen said he didn't plan to confine the inquiry to the economic and financial aspects of relieving Europe alone. He intends after completing his studies in Germany, to talk over with other European leaders—particularly those of the left-wing faction of Britain's Labor Party — their long-range economic and socialization plans.

RELIGION AND THE HOME

Edmonton Bulletin

Doubtless it is not psychologically sound to interfere with the basic need for self-expression or whatever it is that compels parents to war with each other and even abandon their homes. But they assume a most solemn responsibility when their indulgence in practices that break up the home may result in the destruction of a child's belief in God.

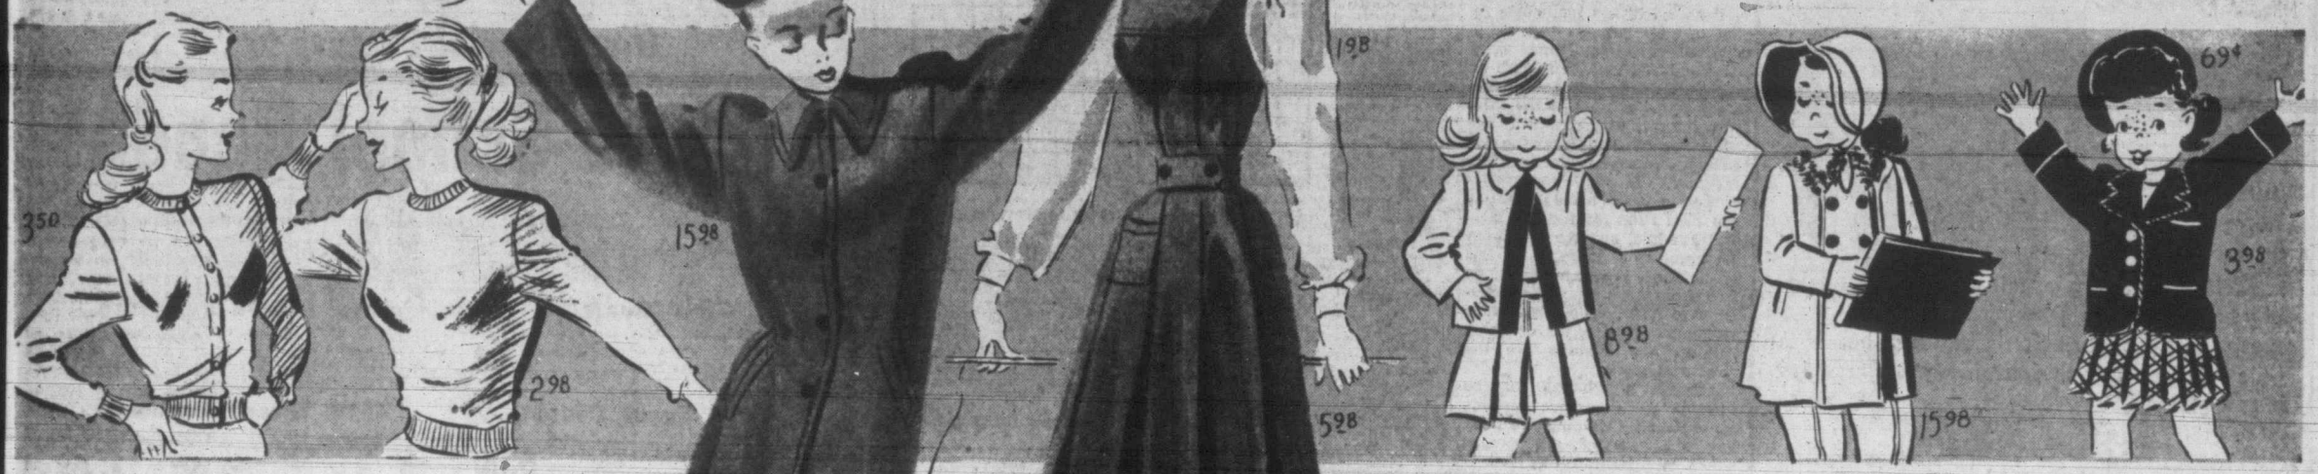

DIFFICULTIES IN ERSE

London (Ont.) Free Press

Ireland's present politics and her economics don't mix, and money talks even more eloquently than the Erse enthusiasts. Ireland may be independent of Britain politically, but the cost of cutting herself off economically is too great for her people to bear. Even England, with all its problems, seems more attractive to the Irish.

There is probably a moral in all this. It may well be that nationalism is a luxury in these times for which small countries may not have the ability to pay. The Irish used to maintain that their poverty resulted from the drain exacted by England. They can hardly argue that way now.

The DOCTOR Says:

DRUG MAY BRING HIVE RELIEF

By WILLIAM O'BRIEN, M.D.

Benadryl brings immediate relief to most patients with acute attacks of hives; those with chronic hives tend to relapse as soon as the drug is stopped. Hives are pockets of fluid in the skin, with the difficulty caused by the collection of histamine in the tissues. Benadryl neutralizes this chemical.

The number of hives present at one time runs from one to several hundred, and the size from a pinhead to as large as the flat of the hand. Fluid accumulations vary from those which are superficial to large, deep, disfiguring swellings. In all forms of hives, itchings and swelling are the chief complaints.

Any part of the body may be affected by hives, but portions constricted by clothing are most apt to be affected. In persons who are subject to hives, there is a tendency for the condition to come back in the same spots. Nearly two-thirds of all people have had one or more attacks of hives in their lifetime.

Hives have an unpredictable course. The majority of swellings flare up, last a few days to a week, and then disappear. The condition can become chronic and, until now, this type has been noted for its stubborn resistance to most forms of treatment. Large swellings in vital structures, such as the throat, may interfere with breathing, and intense itching, insomnia and disfigurement interfere with the victim's earning powers.

RELIEF OFTEN SPEEDY

Paul A. O'Leary, M.D., Mayo Clinic, reports that in acute attacks of hives, benadryl relieved the majority of patients within a few hours to days.

Benadryl should not be used except under a physician's direction, because it may also cause drowsiness, dizziness, weakness and dryness of the mouth. These difficulties develop early and tend to disappear as the drug is continued.

Foods such as shellfish, strawberries, eggs, and chocolate, and drugs such as quinine, barbiturates, iodine and headache remedies are the commonest causes of hives. Hives also may be caused by light, heat and cold. When the cause is known, it is advisable to avoid the food or drug even though treatment is effective in most cases.

Answer: Wrong. There is no scientific proof that grey hair has been restored to its original color by the use of vitamins.

OSTRICHES PULL LIGHT GIGS AROUND RACE TRACKS

Now and then a person may boast that he has "a stomach like an ostrich." The saying came from the fact that ostriches can swallow things of many kinds without harm to their stomachs.

Ostriches eat leaves, grass, fruit, berries, lizards and snakes. Sometimes they swallow sand, bones and stones. The hard objects which they swalow do not seem to injure them.

Yet even the stomach of an ostrich can be hurt. Cases are on record where tame ostriches have died after swallowing poison.

Three of four ostriches may use the same nest for eggs. The number of eggs in a nest may be from 25 to 30.

Male ostriches do most of the work of sitting on eggs, but the females cover the nest at times. An ostrich egg weighs about three pounds, and is equal in weight to from 18 to 24 hens' eggs. The hatching of ostrich eggs takes from six to seven weeks.

Ostriches travel around in groups. Sometimes four or five of them go together, and there are large parties as well, numbering from 30 to 50.

In former times ostriches were killed for the sake of certain feathers known as "plumes." These feathers grow on the wings of an ostrich, also in the tail. They became popular because women wanted them to decorate hats.

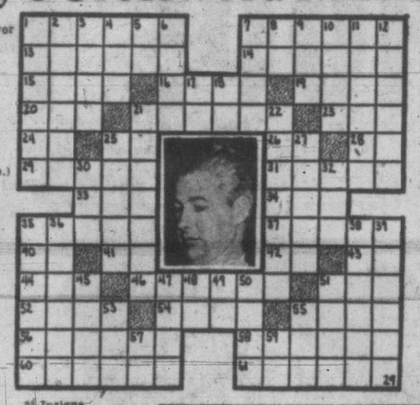

The market for plumes led to the starting of "ostrich farms." Tame birds were kept and fed while they laid eggs and reared their young.

Ostrich farms were opened in the Union of South Africa during the middle part of the past century. Later—in 1882—22 ostriches were imported to start an ostrich farm in California, and these were followed eight years later by a group of 44 ostriches. The industry grew fairly well, with 3,000 tames ostriches in the United States by 1908. Florida, Arizona, North Carolina and Arkansas, as well as California, had ostrich farms by that time.

Ostriches are known for their skill in running. For a short distance, when bounding away from an enemy, they are believed to make a speed of a mile a minute.

On race tracks ostriches have been put in harness, each pulling a light carriage with a man in the seat. Often they are able to win against horses. Yet they tend to try to circle off the course at times, and this causes them to lose some races with horses.

U.S. Submarine Has Narrow Escape In Vancouver Harbor

VANCOUVER (CP) — The United States submarine Cabezon is safe in Vancouver harbor Thursday after a narrow escape off shoals that line the entrance to the First Narrows.

The Cabezon swung sharply to avoid collision first with a fishing boat which was leaving the harbor, then a barge towed by a tug, and was headed straight for the shoals. It stopped just short when engines were thrown into emergency reverse.

British War Bride Acquitted Of Murder

CRESTVIEW, Fla. (AP) — A grand jury Thursday freed Mrs. Margaret Irene Poland, British war bride, of charges in the fatal shooting of her American soldier-husband at Fort Walton July 24.

The grand jury reported its finding of no true bill against the 21-year-old native of the Isle of Man shortly after court had convened today.

"I think it's wonderful," Mrs. Poland said. "I'm sorry it all happened, but I'm happy about the verdict."

She said her first move, now that she had been freed of the charge, would be to "get my baby back."

She had claimed she shot her husband during a quarrel after he had taken their son from her and sent him to his relatives in Tomkinsville, Ky.

Arrives For Probe

Maj.-Gen. Ira T. Wyche (right), U.S. army inspector-general, is greeted by Lt.-Gen. John C. M. Lee on Wyche's arrival at Leghorn, Italy, to investigate conditions in Lee's Mediterranean command. Gen. Wyche said he would like to have the co-operation of Robert C. Ruark, Scripps-Howard columnist, in his investigation.

Australia Risking Dollar Outlay Cut

CANBERRA (Reuter) — Australia will risk an economic crisis of her own in a program of cuts in dollar expenditure to help Britain, it was authoritatively learned Thursday.

She will try to bridge a gap in dollar expenditure of between $80,000,000 and $85,000,000.

The gap between Australia's earnings and expenditures in Canada and the United States last year was authoritatively estimated at $100,000,000. Britain's gap is $2,400,000,000.

Meanwhile, the exact way in which savings on films from the United States will be made has not been decided. The government was known to have turned down a suggestion by the movie industry and believed it would finally have to make the decision itself.

Woman's Body, Beaten Found In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — The body of Cecile Carriere, 43, was found in her room Thursday on downtown St. Lawrence Boulevard and police said they believed the woman had been murdered.

The body was black and blue, as if from a beating, and the eyes were almost closed from cuts.

Naked to the waist, the body was found in bed in the dingy room.

First Batch Of 2,000 Domestics Coming To Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — First batch of 2,000 domestic servants from displaced persons camps will leave Europe about the end of September for Canada, an immigration officials said Thursday.

The exact number was not known immediately but it was thought to be small, possibly about a dozen. The journey likely would be made on the Aquitania, one of the few ships carrying immigrants to Canada.

Following the first group, officials expect about 400 domestics monthly, beginning in October.

The average age of domestics will range between 18 and 33 years. Some may be more than 40 years, depending on their ability to handle "institutional work," such as hospitals.

No Veterans' Loans Without Building

OTTAWA (CP)—Officials of the Veterans' Land Act announced Thursday that during the remainder of 1947 loans to veterans building privately under provisions of the act will be deferred unless the contractor can show he is in a position to complete the contract before winter.

"This step is taken in view of the abnormal building conditions in Canada at the present time," said an official. "There are already about 1,200 cases of homes to be built under the Veterans' Land Act in which construction has not been started, even though the contract and the loan have been approved.

"In Canada, with our severe winter weather, those homes which have not reached a certain state of completion by the commencement of winter conditions cost considerably more to complete, and also involve risks of deterioration.

"We feel the veteran who cannot get his home to a reasonable state of completion in the three or four months of good building weather still remaining will be in a much better position if he defers his building until the building season of 1948."

City Fathers Demand Closing Of Club

"Definite action" to close the Wagon Wheel, dine and dance place termed a "notorious gambling house," located close to city limits of El Cerrito, Calif., has been demanded by El Cerrito City Council in letter to Attorney-General Fred N. Houser. The council charged that "for reasons of their own" county law enforcement officers have taken no steps to curb open betting in "this largest handbook operation in the country." The establishment is reportedly half-owned by Elmer (Bones) Remmer, San Francisco and Lake Tahoe gambling figure. Here a San Francisco taxi waits outside the Wagon Wheel for its passengers who have traveled 25 miles to visit the establishment before its 10 a.m. opening hour.

Youthful Farmer Shoots 4, Suicides

SHELBYVILLE, Ill. (AP)—A 22-year-old farmer last night shot and killed his 16-year-old bride and his father, wounded his mother and 12-year-old brother-in-law, then shot and killed himself.

Dead were Mrs. Jacqueline Helton, 16; Earl Helton, about 60, a farmer, and Donald Helton, 22. Mrs. Jacqueline Helton's brother, Walter Knearem, was in critical condition with bullet wounds in his chest. Mrs. Florence Helton, about 60, Donald's mother, was wounded in the hand and arm.

State's Attorney Eugene Bland of Shelby County, who attributed the shooting spree to young Helton, said it apparently stemmed from a threat which the youth made two weeks ago to kill his wife.

Portraits of V.C. Winners

P/O. Andrew Charles Mynarski of Winnipeg (above), is the other V.C.-winning airman. Both fliers lost their lives in the actions in which they won their V.C.'s. The paintings were done from photographs.

BEDFORD — By drinking a "yard of ale"—in a long glass holding 2½ pints—in 35 seconds, Cpl. Dudley Stevens, R.A.F., eclipsed the existing record by two seconds.

A sum of $150 was realized at the garden party held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. McVie, 922 Lyall Street, under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary to Princess Patricia's Light Infantry.

Introduced by Mrs. C. Pelly, president of the auxiliary, Mrs. C. R. Pearkes declared the affair opened. She congratulated the auxiliary on their splendid achievements during the war years and for their efforts in furnishing out-patients wards as a memorial to all Patricias in both world wars.

Proceeds from the garden party will be used for this memorial.

A box of chocolates was presented to Mrs. Pearkes by Mrs. R. McVie on behalf of the auxiliary.

Flags and bunting decorated the garden and a huge marquee was erected on the lawn for games. Various stalls were set up under the trees and afternoon tea served at individual tables on the lawn.

An interesting feature of the afternoon was a display of pictures, the work of James McVie.

Two Years' Service With Unrra

Miss Esme Giolma, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Giolma, Olympia Avenue, has returned to Victoria after serving over two years with Unrra in Europe.

Leaving Washington, D.C., in the summer of 1945, Miss Giolma spent a month in England taking a preparation course and then went on to Granville, Normandy, as secretary of personnel.

"All Unrra workers came through our base at Granville," Miss Giolma explains." "They were given a short course of instruction and then sent out into the field."

The Normandy base was eventually closed and the personnel offices moved on into Holland. Miss Giolma was in an advance party of eight that motored ahead to make arrangements for housing the staff.

Offices were set up in the little village of Haaren in a seminary that had been a training school for priests before the war and during the war a German concentration camp.

"When we arrived we found the Germans had taken all the fixtures and much of the glass," Miss Giolma tells you, "and what was even worse, parts of the furnaces.

"We had quite a time getting heat going in the huge rambling place."

Later, Miss Giolma moved again—to Spenge in the British zone in Germany—as director of training and when this base was closed to Brussels in Belgium.

Recruits to Unrra who came through the personnel offices in Germany had much to do with the displaced persons camps.

"Morale is high in these places," Miss Giolma says. "Each camp has its own government; they are clean and the people who live in them are busy and trying hard to adjust themselves to a new life.

"Our greatest hope, however, lies in the children," she continued. "They are all learning to speak English and are eager to start new homes in new countries."

In all camps Miss Giolma visited, native crafts have been re-established.

"The smallest bits of leather, pieces of cloth and even bits of paper are being created into fascinating handicrafts," she explained.

Recently an exhibition of this work was held in London, Miss Giolma says, and many of the articles were sold. The money is to be returned to the camps for the use of displaced persons.

Miss Giolma visited in Denmark and Switzerland and spent two months in England before returning to Canada.

Asked whether she intends to remain in Victoria, she smiled and shrugged her expressive shoulders. "For a while at least," she said, "but some day soon I'd like to go to South America or perhaps South Africa. However, time alone will tell that.

Softer Classic

The fall standby, a classic suit gets a 1947 treatment by Belliciano with a padded hipline and diagonal closing such as the one worn here by NBC's Jinx Falkenburg of the "Tex and Jinx" show. The suit is grey and has a two-way, side-button lapel.

Victoria Couple Wed In Vancouver

Canadian Memorial Church in Vancouver was the scene of a wedding of interest here Tuesday at 8, when the marriage of May Sketchley Croft and A. Allison Campbell, both of Victoria, was solemnized by Rev. J. W. Melvin.

Rosa Van Lima gladioli and early white chrysanthemums decorated the church for the ceremony attended by relatives and close friends. Lighted white tapers were held in white candelabra. G. Keefer presided at the organ.

Given in marriage by her brother, H. W. Croft of Vancouver, the bride wore a mulberry-toned dressmaker suit with Gainsborough model hat in matching hue, trimmed with dusky pink ostrich feather tips.

Her sister, Mrs. George Kyle of Vancouver, was matron of honor. Her ensemble of beige was completed with off-the-face hat trimmed in white feather tips.

A reception followed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Croft. Rooms were decorated with summer blossoms by Miss Edna Gault, Mrs. D. Ramsay and Mrs. A. Robsinson. H. B. MacLean proposed the toast to the bride.

Guests from Victoria included the bride's mother's, Mrs. Andrew Stewart, her sisters, Miss Alice Croft and Mrs. E. C. MacIntyre, and Mr. Alex Campbell, son of the groom.

Sorority Beach Party

At a beach party held Tuesday evening by Xi Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, three members of the chapter were honored: Miss Phyllis Fox, a September bride-elect who was presented with a silver butter dish; Miss Ruth Haywood, who leaves to make her home in Toronto in September, and Mrs. J. Doran who goes to Vancouver where her husband will attend University of British Columbia. Both received a pair of earrings. Miss Eleanor Williamson, president of the chapter made the presentations. Among special guests were Mrs. W. G. Wilson of Berkeley, California, the former Miss Alice Corcoran. Following the party members visited Miss Betty Dawson in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Miss O'Connell, Edward Peck, Principals In Nuptial Rites

Marriage vows were exchanged Thursday at 8 by Miss Jacqueline Lee O'Connell, niece of Mrs. Carl D. Pfender, 2500 Cotswold Road, and Edward Richard Urquhart Peck, son of Col. and Mrs. C. W. Peck, All Bay Road, Sidney.

White gladioli decorating St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, created a lovely setting for the bride in her white brocaded satin gown designed in Elizabethan mode. Her bouquet was composed of white orchids and she wore a diamond brooch, gift of the groom's mother.

Her uncle, Harry J. Barnes, gave the bride in marriage in the ceremony conducted by Archdeacon A. E. de L. Nunns.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Harry J. Barnes, gowned in aqua-toned crepe. Trio of bridesmaids, Misses Rita Corcoran, Joyce Waters and Noreen Gummow, wore identical peach-shaded gowns of moire taffeta. All chose old-fashioned poke bonnets and carried Colonial bouquets.

Russell Munro attended the groom. Ushers were Horace Peck, Douglas Peck and William Rouke.

In the lower lounge of the Empress Hotel, guests were received by the couple, assisted by Mrs. Pfender, in an imported English model gown of grey crepe, with American Beauty velvet hat, and Mrs. Peck, gowned in French blue crepe, with which she wore a pink floral hat.

An old Scottish dirk, belonging to Col. H. Urquhart, godfather of the groom, was used by the couple to cut their wedding cake.

The newlyweds, honeymooning up-island and on the mainland, plan to make their future home in Vancouver.

For her going-away ensemble, the bride chose a beige Hurlingham gabardine suit, black topcoat and black accessories.

A miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Miss Jean Major, 535 Jofre Street Wednesday to honor Miss Joyce McAdam, whose marriage will take place Sept. 9. Corsage bouquets were presented to the principal, her mother, Mrs. W. R. D. McAdam, and mother of the groom-elect, Mrs. W. A. Bell. Guests included Mesdames A. Anaka, G. Nicholson, R. Moore, A. Wotherspoon, A. Rowa, W. E. Major and Misses Patsy Moore and Ivy Isherwood.

Basic Cosmetics Basic For Teens

The girl who is casing the cosmetics counters for her back-to-school requirements will settle for the basic preparations and see that each is keyed to the needs of her skin.

She will, that is, if she's smart and wants to stretch her pennies, says a cosmetic-research chemist.

The first requirement, he says, is a good cleanser. This can be a bland soap or a soapless liquid which whips up a penetrating lather in hard water. Use this cleanser often — two or three times a day at least, he says—to free pores of anything at all that clogs them.

Next, he recommends a greaseless lubricant to keep a young skin supple and free from chapping. Young skins, he says, have an abundance of natural oils so that they should not be subjected to smears of heavy waxy creams intended for the older woman's dry or less-active skin. Besides, says our chemist, a greasy cream allowed to remain on the surface of a young skin only attracts dirt which burrows into pores and causes blemishes.

A protective lotion to be used as a powder base is third on the chemist's recommended list. One such lotion which is slightly medicated for sheathing skin against germs leaves a complexion looking glamorously smooth when powder is applied.

These cosmetics plus lipstick and, if you insist, such party-occasion glamorizers as eye-shadow, mascara or rouge are all you need to make the most of youthful good looks.

Social Situation

Situation: You are a guest at a summer hotel or dude ranch and the person in charge does everything possible to make your stay enjoyable.

Wrong Way: Feel that it isn't necessary to express appreciation for such hospitable treatment, since you were a paying guest.

Right Way: Express your appreciation either in spoken words when you leave, or in a note written after you return home—or both.

Class for Class Rooms

As chalk takes to blackboards, cottons designed for the classroom take to new dark dyes and to new freedom of yardage. Colors of dark plaids used for young-fry fashions put autumn leaves to shame. Results of free use of fabric are newly-deep hems, which allow for beanstalk growth, fuller skirts, larger collars and pockets, more important yokes and other details that spell more style for the back-to-school march.

Cottons go to the head of the class for smart back-to-school styles. School girl (above) wears plaided cotton perked up with white eyelet collar and pocket trim. The demure miss (upper right) shows off her Kate Greenaway-inspired plaid gingham dress which has a spanking white pique bib front. White pique collar and cuffs are crisp accents for the tomato and gray striped chambray modeled by the tiny student (right).

Flaky Skin Needs End-of-Summer Care

End-of-summer problem for many bronzed beauties is that of reconditioning skin from which Old Sol has spirited off supplying oils. Symptoms are excessive dryness and flaking skin.

Recommended treatment includes the use of cleansing grains and a "barber shop" facial.

Cleansing grains will help to graze off skin flakes if grains are mixed with water to make a moist paste and this is used with a gentle friction action over the face.

For the "barber shop" facial to follow, first massage your face with cold cream. Then, wring out a turkish towel in hot water and bury your creamed face in it. The moist heat will help to make the softening oils of your cream more penetrating. After steaming wipe off excess cream and close pores by patting skin briskly with cotton pads wrung out in icy water.

Before you go to bed, grease up your dry skin and leave cream on overnight.

Blue Lipstick For Grey Days

Ever thought of keying the colors of your make-up and clothes to the weather? You'll get more flattering effects if you do.

On a rainy or cloudy day, for example, make-up shades with blue undertones will appear brilliant and rich. On the other hand, tawny reds, yellows, oranges and beiges will be robbed of some of their vibrancy.

Reason for this is that short blue rays of the spectrum of invisible light can wriggle through the layers of moisture while the longer red rays of the spectrum are absorbed by the droplets in the clouds of water. So, your rainy day make-up kit should include a lipstick with a bluish cast.

Bright sun is the spotlight that plays up tawny hues. But sunlight will tinge blue-toned colors with a yellowish cast. For this reason, an orange-red lipstick may be more flattering on a sunny day than, say, your fuchsia shades.

In Step With Style

Be Sharp—Make those wedgies sharp as a tack with tacks. They come in all colors so all you do is thumb them in around the sole. Brass or copper upholsterers' tacks will score a strike, too.

Extra High-Type—When it's feathery earrings and lapel pins you're wearing. And all it takes is a little cement, earring screws or clips and pins and clusters of brilliant multicolored trout flies.

Drapery Looks New—Because it is put in new spots and handled in new ways. Besides, it is a young kind of drapery and nothing like the bunched bosom drapes of past seasons.

Coats Swing Wide—You might choose to change to a big loose swinging coat this fall—maybe even one with a hood. Coats like these, which in other years you would have chosen only for sports or travel, are now being shown over dressy afternoon prints, over black restaurant dresses as well as over suits.

Full Skirt—Tight Tops—Your new fall suit may be jaunty as a red chrysanthemum, with a short tight jacket and a swinging skirt—maybe full and flaring, maybe generously pleated, but certainly longer than last year's. Short jacket button snugly to the throat, offer a choice of a small or no collar at all.

Peplums Flare Out — They're more to a peplum this year, more to a pouf or a bustle or a bow. You'll wear a longer tunic, a wider drapery. If your skirt wraps around, there'll be enough material to keep it from a parting of the ways when you sit or walk. You'll like the feeling that you aren't skimped.

Slim Skirt—Long Jacket—Your skirt may follow a straight and narrow line, but if it does your jacket will be lots longer—several inches below the hipbone. You'll have real pockets—slash or patch or with a flap. The shoulder line of the sleeve is rounder, less severe, and cuffs often add flippancy to a sleeve.

Skirts Are Longer—The short short skirt is out of the running. Smart girls are getting more length by the simple expedient of letting hems down. The best-looking clothes walking around at this moment are about fifteen inches from the sidewalks. Fourteen, if the wearer is short.

Shoulders Have Changed — They look more feminine. It's that rounded line. Though still broad and still padded, they have lost some of that mannish squared off effect. In everything except suits, of course.

Waistlines Are Small — The small waist is pretty much of an optical delusion, induced by the cut of the top and the hips. But however arrived at, it is so attractive that steps should be taken immediately to make it actual rather than faked.

As For the Big Belts—This is a time of wonderful looking, wide, leather belts. And of wide belts not of leather. Wait until you see those made of Roman striped braid! And since wide belts look well only around small waists, they are another reason for a reducing program.

Hips Pushed Out — No two ways about it, hips are very much in style. Nothing now looks more wooden than a flat hipless figure. The new clothes emphasize round hips by big pockets, gathers, drapery, and such things. If you are against hips, consider waistlines. When hips come out, the waist goes in. And that brings up two more reasons for the newness of new clothes.

Smart Careerist Is Set For Fall

Now is the time for the career girl to take a closet inventory for fall needs. By swiping a few days from summer, when leisure time is usually freer, a gal can organize her wardrobe, check her needs, and meet the autumn with fewer waste motions and perhaps a sizable saving to her budget.

Check shoes, handbags and accessories for a possible carry-over into fall. If any accessory needs only repairs to qualify for further service, attend to these. Repairs cost much less than replacements.

What about last year's scarves and other neckwear? Look over your assortment, revive their freshness with laundering or dry-cleaning, and count each piece salvaged as a wardrobe item destined for a style whirl this fall.

Sort out your jewelry. These sparklers are in for a big winter season, so the more pieces you can put into service by cleansing, restringing or re-setting, the better your budget will benefit.

Pair off stocking singles into well-matched mates. If all that's needed to make a match of odds and ends is a tinting bath, now is the time to dip.

Any time that's left can be well spent mending clothes that will be put into service this fall. There is going to be a lot of hemline-lengthening to do. You will probably also find that many shoulder pads will need thinning out.

Talc Dulls Sheen Of Shaved Legs

Bette Arlen dusts powder over her legs to prevent them from shining through sheer stockings.

Do you dislike having your razor-scraped legs shine through your cobwebby sheers?

De-highlight legs as men do their razor-scraped faces by using talcum powder after a shave. There are few, if any, shine removers that can do a better job than talcum.

Slap it over leg gleam with a big puff or brush down to your toes, and sprinkle powder freely between them. This is a small crumb of attention tossed to toes which pays off in big dividends of comfort.

While we're talking up talcum, here's another use to which this cosmetic aid can be put to good advantage. Dust it under your arms to blot up any oily surplus left on by the cream deodorant that you use. Even the cream that vanishes from sight will make a better exit if powdered down with talc. Skin will feel fresher, too, and clothes are less likely to be smeared.

Dewey Advocates National Service

NEW YORK (AP)—Governor Thomas E. Dewey, in a speech at the American Legion convention's opening session here, declared Thursday "it is our duty to provide a program involving participation by all able-bodied young American men under universal military training."

Dewey's statement was the first indication of his stand on the controversial subject of universal military training. The American Legion long has been a staunch advocate of such training program.

He also said that "for the defence of the peace we must maintain a permanent military establishment adequate to the defence of the United States and also sufficient to perform our obligations to the United Nations."

J. M. Wood Invites All Victoria To Inspect Splendid New Premises

J. M. WOOD

J. M. Wood, who, in conjunction with his staff, offers a cordial invitation to the public to visit the formal opening of the new J. M. Wood Motor building, is well known in Victoria and in the automotive trade. Coming to Victoria in 1906 he became one of the pioneers among automotive dealers with the establishment of his own business. Shortly after he took his brother, J. S. Wood, into partnership, operating under the name of Wood Bros. Five years later Mr. J. S. Wood left the firm and it was reorganized under the name of Wood Motors and Taxi Co. In 1917 Mr. Wood became associated with Begg Motors Company, managing the Victoria branch of that firm until 1945. In that year he accepted the appointment of Dodge-DeSoto dealer for the Victoria district and entered business once more on his own account under the present well-known name of J. M. Wood Motors. A prominent golfer Mr. Wood has all his life been a devotee of outdoor sports and has hunted in all parts of B.C. He is past president of the Victoria Automobile dealers' Association and is vice-president of the Motor Dealers' Association of B.C.

In keeping with his firm policy of employing only trained specialists in each department Mr. Wood numbers among his staff men who are well known in their various lines. James Evans heads the truck division, superintending sales and service of Dodge trucks. Stan Kendall is in charge of sales for Dodge and DeSoto cars. The service department comes under the direction of Norman Collins and the parts department is headed by Fred Dyer.

Fine New Building Now Completed

The new home of Wood Motors, where a formal reception will be held tomorrow, 1 to 6 p.m., marking the completion of this modern building, from which the Chrysler-built Dodge and De Soto cars and the Dodge trucks will be distributed.

Wood Motors Building Embraces Latest Ideas In Automotive Sales And Service

During the past months there has been much speculation and conjecture about the new home of J. M. Wood Motors, on the corner of Yates and Cook Streets. The best of architects' and contractors' skill has been combined in a building designed from showroom to machine shop for the sales and service of Dodge and De Soto cars and Dodge trucks.

Tomorrow marks the formal opening of this modern building and, from 1 to 6 p.m., Mr. J. M. Wood and his staff will be at home to Victorians, ready to conduct them through the new premises, to welcome all visitors to the city's newest automobile centre and to offer refreshments. Musical entertainment has been arranged for during the "at home."

The new premises are well worth a visit for those who wish to inspect an automotive house that has everything in modern, attractive design, well planned convenience and sheer beauty in artistic feature. The main building totals no less than 15,300 square feet of floor space with another 2,700 square feet allotted for the service station. On the corner of Yates Street and Cook, it occupies a strategic position, with the long white stucco structure set well back from the street to allow the maximum of drive-in convenience. The showrooms and offices are finished in ultra-modern style, with big windows looking over the street. The big, well equipped stockroom is conveniently placed adjacent to the repair service department, yet easily accessible for the customer from outside. Behind this lies the shop, divided off into the various departments. In the machine shop there is bench accommodation for no less than 22 mechanics and trained specialists in each phase of auto repair and service are employed. A special department has been set aside as the lubricating room, complete with the latest in equipment. The same may be said for the tire department, which is also in a different part of the building, and where tire repair and service of every kind is carried out. Convenience to the patron has been the keynote in carrying out the plan of the service station, with a double driveway and four pumps in operation. Every phase of curb service is backed by the resources of the modern shops in the rear.

From this new building the J. M. Wood Motors will continue to offer the finest service in the handling of Chrysler-built Dodge cars and trucks and in DeSoto cars, the last word in modern transportation.

Search Pressed For 3 Who Seized $25,400 In Winnipeg

WINNIPEG (CP) — An intensive police search was under way today for three men who held up J. M. Kingston, proprietor of the Winnipeg Hotel, on a downtown street Thursday and robbed him of $25,400 he had just drawn from a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada.

The daring, carefully-prepared hold-up of the 62-year-old hotelman was Winnipeg largest since an $87,000 robbery in 1925.

Mr. Kingston had just entered his automobile after leaving the Carlton Street and Portage Avenue branch of the bank with the money, to be used to cash pay cheques for Canadian National Railways employees who frequent his hotel, when a man jumped into the rear seat, pressed something which felt like a revolver into his back and demanded the cash.

As scores of shoppers walked by, unaware of the hold-up, the six-foot, well-built hotel proprietor reached over his shoulder and pulled the bandit into the front seat. But as he grappled with him, a second man jumped into the car, struck Mr. Kingston in the face, stunning him, and the two fled with the money.

Before he could shout for help, they had hurried into the heavy traffic on Portage Avenue in a stolen car bearing plates taken from still another auto.

Police said a third man also had been involved in the hold-up, but they were reticent on whether they suspected the trio to be the same who recently robbed a Bank of Toronto branch.

SHEFFIELD—A 250-pound woman, sent by the labor exchange to fill a lamp cleaner's job, resigned because her appearance "perched on a ladder, cleaning a street lamp, drew comments, not all of them polite, from certain membehs of the Sheffield public."

Bad News In The Corn Belt

Seven-year-old Elmer Wilken learns the sad story of 1947's poor corn crop from his father, a Penfield, Ill., farmer. Most of the pollen on this stalk, Mr. Wilken explains, has already fallen, and un-silked corn ears have not been pollenated. Midwest's continued heat wave makes this season's corn prospects even darker.

Kiwanis Derby Winner Receives Awards

W. J. Hamilton, centre, who landed the heaviest fish, an eight-pounder, in the annual fishing derby of the Kiwanis Club, Wednesday, at Saanich Arm, receives the Hagar Trophy and first prize of an Indian sweater. Legion Force Deciding Game In Boxla Series

Well, the defending champion Canadian Legion boxla squad finally beat J.B.A.A. in their best-of-three semifinal series for the right to enter the finals against Foul Bay but the series is still far from over. Legion's 11 to 10 win last night only ties the series at one game each, the other two games having ended in ties.

Except for the absence of heavy body checking and rough play that had featured the first three games, last night's contest was little different from the other tilts. The teams fought tooth and nail for every advantage with Bays coming through with a belated rally in the dying moments of the last quarter that fell just one goal short of tying the score.

With both teams suffering injuries, the Bays probably having the majority unfit for action, team managers decided before last night's game that they would ask for a truce over the holiday enabling their squads to be at full strength for the deciding tilt. As a result the fifth game will be played Tuesday and not Saturday as previously scheduled.

GAIN EARLY LEAD

Legion showed in the early minutes of the first quarter that they were out to win last night's game. Stripping Porky Andrews and Austin Cullin, Vets took command of play right from the start and roared into a 4 to 2 lead at the end of the first 15 minutes, increasing their margin to 6 to 2 at the half.

Paced by Duff McCaghey, the champions kept up the pressure in the third period to at one time hold a 9 to 3 lead. Bays then came to life, and with three quick markers by Winter, O'Connell and Reid climbed to within three goals of the eventual winners.

After Buddy Lott had opened the last quarter with a goal for Legion, Norm Coates slipped through for Bays and tallied a beauty. McCaghey then broke through the Bay defence to score Legion's 11th goal, his fifth of the night, and what eventually proved to be the deciding marker, a few minutes later.

Down but not out, the scrappy Bays started a last ditch rally that netted them three straight goals, but they were not able to punch home the equalizer.

Bob Aitken and Buzz Long, rival goaltenders, staged quite a bitter duel of their own during the first three periods, each coming up with some sensational saves in their respective nets to thwart many a scoring opportunity.

The crowd on hand was definitely the largest of the season and their sympathies were mostly with J.B.A.A. No fights took place but there was a little fast talking going on between rival players at the half-time intermission but nothing came of it.

Teams and scorers follow:

J.B.A.A.—Aitken, Sargent, Anderson 1, Winter 2, Coates 2, Bamford 1, Hamm, Carney, O'Connell 2, Reid 2.

Legion—Long, T. McKeachie, Andrews 1, Ball 2, McKim, J. McKeachie, Mason 1, Baker 1, Cullin, Lott 1, McCaghey 5, Allen.

VIC KING WINS

Vic King is the champion golfer of the bootmakers. He won the title this week in the annual shoemen's golf tournament at Uplands, firing an 82.

G. Greenhall of Vancouver captured low net honors with a 65. Alex Stewart annexed the Brock Whitney trophy for low net competition amongst Victoria players with a 67.

Proves Betting On Horses Profitable

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The bangtails can be beaten, Victor W. Nielsen assured the court today—but the percentage wasn't anything to shout about.

Nielsen, testifying in a divorce case, pulled out a little black book on his bets to counter his wife's claim that he squandered the family's money on the gee-gees.

In two years, he told the court, he had bought $311,000 worth of pari mutual tickets on an original capital of $4,500.

His profit? $26.41.

Plan Two Race Meets At Langford Oval Over Holiday

A double bill will be presented to Langford Speedway racing fans over the holiday, with the regularly scheduled meet Saturday to be followed by a special Labor Day attraction.

All the drivers appearing in Saturday's card have promised to remain over for the holiday meeting.

The Dreyer car, which took last week's main event, will be back this week with Shorty Scoville the probable driver. Jack Spaulding, who has been having his share of successes this season, will be driving the Olds and Perkins, No. 44 buggy.

Other American cars include Dick Barber's No. 15 with Max Hume of Portland at the wheel; Del Fanning's Ford, Chuck House's No. 25 with Eddie Rossan driving, and Lloyd Blair's No. 14.

Pike Green will be handling his new Johnny Dalby special, No. 64, reported to be a hot job. Jack Norton will be at the wheel of Bruce Passmore's No. 36.

The feature race Labor Day will be a 50-lap event.

Bruce Passmore, owner of the Langford Speedway, announced today that he plans to hold further races during the first two weeks of September, weather permitting.

Michigan Trio Set U.S. Swim Records

HONOLULU (AP)—Michigan's Harry Holiday, Bob Sohol and Dick Weinberg shattered two American swimming records at Waikiki War Memorial pool last night—including one they had already smashed twice this month.

The threesome swam the 300-meter medley relay in 3:13.7—seven seconds under the official record, nearly two seconds under the time they set at the Tyler, Texas, nationals a few weeks ago.

Then they swam the 150-meter medley relay in 1:28.8, two-tenths of a second under the record Ohio State set last year.

By PETE SALLAWAY

WITH the end of the pro ball season only nine days away local fans are getting their heads together selecting all-star teams. Although the official Western International League all-star aggregation will not be announced until just before the close of the schedule the writer decided to nominate his club. My team has been picked on the strength of batting and fielding percentages and general all-around ability. It is a cinch many will not agree with my choices but what all-star squad does not come in for criticism?

HERE it is: First base, Bud Gorman, Spokane; second base, Leon Mohr, Vancouver; shortstop, Buddy Hicks, Spokane; third base, Bob Hedington, Tacoma; left field, Frank Mullens, Vancouver; centre field, Pete Tedeschi, Tacoma, and right field, Johnny Hooper, Victoria. For catchers I'll take Earl Kuper, Tacoma, as the number one back stop with Vic Mastro, Victoria, number two. For the two-man pitching staff I'll go along with Wandell Mossor, Salem south paw, and Bob Costello, Spokane right-hander. For coach of the team my selection is Jack Wilson of Salem.

WILSON'S nomination for the coaching berth is on the strength of the fine job he has done with the Senators this season with the material on hand. Although the Salem club is woefully weak in power Wilson has kept his club hustling behind some real good pitching. Outside of Eddie Barr and Bob Moore Salem has little extra-base punch but the club has been up in the first division most of the season and right now looks to have a great chance to win the pennant with the added advantage of a long home stand to close out the schedule.

FOR THE benefit of those who might disagree with my team let me point out the combined batting average of the players, exclusive of the pitchers, and based on the latest official averages released by Howe News Bureau, is a respectable .343. There is a world of power in the bats of fellows like Kuper and Mastro, Mullens, Tedeschi, Hooper, Gorman and Hedington. If you want speed there is plenty in the flying feet of Tedeschi, Mullens, Hooper and Mohr. All players are up and coming youngsters and the club would not suffer from any lack of hustle. Honorable mention must go to Bob Hall, big right-hand pitcher of Vancouver Capilanos; Jack Harshman, Victoria first baseman who is leading the league in home runs; Bill White, Victoria outfielder, league leader in total hits and doubles and Joe Sullivian, Bremerton pitcher who could not be selected owing to his having never worked in Victoria this season.

Junior Salmon Derby At Port Alberni

In the junior salmon derby held by the Port Alberni Tyee Club, Allen Pineo was the winner with a fish weighing 33½ pounds. M. Carswell was second with a 29½-pounder and Rose Walker third with a 26-pound tyee.

Annual open derby will be held Sunday with fishing scheduled from dawn until 9 in the evening.

Benn Twirls Aces To Softball Shutout

Ronnie Benn, regular left-fielder of Brentwood Aces, tried his hand on the mound last night against B.C. Forest Products in a Poodle Dog Cup knockout softball game and when the game was over Benn found he had twirled his mates to a two-hit 10 to 0 triumph.

In another Poodle Dog game Dominion Meat Market of the men's senior B loop defeated Douglas Hawkes of the junior boys' section 15 to 3.

SOCCER MEETING

Topper's first division soccer club will hold a meeting at Topper's Cafe Sunday at 2. Anyone interested in playing for the club is asked to attend.

Bob Jensen Sharp In Turning Back Tacoma

Returning to the form that made him the most feared hurler in the Western International League last season, big Bob Jensen blew his high hard fast one past Tacoma Tigers last night as Victoria Athletics came through with a 6 to 5 victory. Taking over in the first inning in a relief role, three runs down, Jensen looked sharp as he held the visitors to two runs and five hits the rest of the way while his teammates put over a winning three-run rally in the eighth.

Jensen, rearing up and throwing with all his old-time zip, came up with 11 strikeouts and received a big hand from the crowd as he fanned Tedeschi for the third and final out in the ninth. Only time Rapid Robert ran into trouble was when he came in with change of pace pitches. His fast one had Tacoma batters handcuffed.

Winning rally in the eighth started when Vic Mastro worked Dick Greco for a walk and pilfered second as Harshman whiffed. White bounced a single to deep short, Mastro pulling up at third. Babe Jensen grounded a hit through the centre to score Mastro. Greco hit Righetti to load the bases and Bob Jensen aided his own cause by lining out to deep right field, White scoring the tying run after the catch. Cy Greenlaw took over from Greco and Patterson greeted him with a single to right, sending Babe Jensen across with the winning tally.

Len Kasparovitch, who started for the A's, failed to get a batter out before going to the showers. After Miller had opened with a single, shortstop Cavalli fumbled Paton's ground smash on what looked like a cinch double play. Tedeschi followed with a single, scoring Miller, and when Kasparovitch threw wild to second after fielding Kuper's roller, the bases were loaded. Stetter singled sharply to left, scoring another pair. Jensen was sent in and forced Hedington to hit into a double play. He took Donovan on strikes for the third out.

GRECO HITS HOMER

Tacoma got to Jensen for their fourth run in the fifth on a walk and two singles with Greco lining the ball out of the park for a home run in the seventh.

Athletics got a pair in the second on a walk, Harshman's double and White's single. Patterson's single, Cavalli's sacrifice and first sacker Donovan's error allowed A's to tie it up in the third.

Greco, converted outfielder, pitched a good game for Tacoma until he went out under fire in the eighth. The big fellow, showing a deadly side-arm fast ball took six on strikes and, with a little better control, will prove himself on the mound.

Tonight will be "fans' appreciation night" at the ball park with around 50 merchandise prizes to be given away in a drawing, scheduled to get started at 8.

Although baseball championships usually go to the teams winning the most games, the league bunting, currently sought after by five closely-hunched aggregations, may well go to the team losing the fewest.

12-INNING BATTLE

Bremerton, leading the circuit by a single game, dropped a 2 to 1 12-inning decision to Vancouver last night, its fourth loss in seven starts.

Salem, although winning six of eight starts, celebrated its previous night's rise to second place by bowing 18 to 12 to eighth-place Wenatchee.

Spokane, two nights ago a runner-up, dropped a doubleheader to seventh-place Yakima 7 to 0 and 10 to 5 to slip to fourth. The erstwhile challengers have won but one of their last eight games.

Harper Again Tosses Ladysmith To Victory

Dixie Harper is a name that Esquimalt softballers won't forget for a long time, regardless of what happens in the seventh and final game of the island senior A softball series at Ladysmith tonight. The lanky, curly-headed pitcher of Travelers Hotel last night threw his third successive victory against the meat dealers at Central Park to knot the series at three games each. Score was 9 to 8.

Counted out after Esquimalt had taken the first three games of the series, Ladysmith have fought back with grim determination and now stand within one game of pulling the upset of the season by taking four straight games and the island crown.

Not to detract anything from the performance of Esquimalt who are still in the series in a large way, Ladysmith's feat of bouncing back after absorbing three defeats stamps them as a fighting club who refuse to give up, and the locals will have to be at their best to take the up-islanders in the final game. Pitchers tonight will be Kinch for Esquimalt, and for Ladysmith—Harper.

TAKE EARLY LEAD

Ladysmith took to the offerings of Ray Byers early, scoring two runs in the second inning and adding four more in the third before he was replaced by Ralph Bonner. Vic Dale put Esquimalt within three runs of the Hotelmen in the bottom of the third when he doubled home two runners and scored on an error by Pete Hawryluk.

Winners picked up a single run in the fifth which Esquimalt offset with a marker of their own in the sixth. In the eighth and last frame Ladysmith again started to unload their heavy artillery on Bonner, scoring two runs.

A wild seventh-inning rally by Esquimalt came within one run of tying the up-islanders, pinch-hitter George Kinch singling in the final two tallies. MacDonald, left-fielder of Ladysmith, pulled the fielding highlight in the eighth frame by spearing Gar Taylor's smash one-handed on the foul line.

Dale led the local hitters with four singles, while A. Copp paced the winners with three for three.

Major Ball Clubs Oppose Plane Travel

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler and his committee, including presidents Will Harridge and Ford Frick of the American and National Leagues, arrived today to begin a four-day inspection tour of Pacific Coast League facilities.

Here primarily to investigate what basis the coast circuit has for demanding major league status, Chandler and other committee members indicated that most major league club owners "are still very much opposed to transporting teams in planes."

Querying reporters took this to mean that there is no plan immediately under consideration for moving a single major league franchise to Los Angeles.

Both Harridge and Frick said that the subject of transferring a franchise has not come up in their leagues since the St. Louis Browns made a gesture to shift to Los Angeles in 1941.

V.A.S.C. PICNIC

Mrs. Gladys Thomas, secretary of the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club, announced last night that the club's annual basket picnic will be held Sunday at Curlew Park, Elk Lake. Members and friends are asked to meet at the Crystal Garden at 12:45 to arrange transportation.

Intercity Cricket Match Scheduled For Labor Day

The pick of British Columbia cricketers will display their wares at Macdonald Park, Labor Day, when an all-star Victoria eleven meets Vancouver in the annual holiday attraction.

A number of players of both teams recently represented the province at the Dominion championships, British Columbia gaining a tie for the title.

The intercity match is scheduled to start at 10.30 with lunch and tea intervals set for 12.30 to 1.30 and 4.30 to 5.15.

Victoria handed the Vancouver side a defeat in last year's match and the mainlanders are reported to be out to reverse the setback. Local stars on the Victoria side include Reg Wenman, Ted Parkins and Jack Payne and these top-flight experts figure they can repeat the dose to the visitors.

League matches tomorrow will see Navy playing Five C's at Naden, Oak Bay meeting Albions at Windsor Park, and ex-R.A.F. playing Incogs at University School. All games start at 2.30.

Lineups for Saturday's matches follow:

Five C's—Griffin, Pugh, Harper, McKeachie, J. Payne, Bagot, Inglis, Grealy, Gardiner, Attwell and Richards.

Oak Bay—Dobbie, Brewin, Parkins, Deans, Bing, Gauvreau, Thornton, Scott, Olsen, Sands and Robinson.

Argos Fly West For Games At Winnipeg

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts write a new kind of record in their 76-year-old history when they take off today in two Trans-Canada Air Lines planes for Winnipeg and exhibition games with the Blue Bombers, last year's western football winners.

Thirty-six Argos players are to make the trip for the games Saturday and Monday. A civic reception awaits them in Winnipeg.

Coach Ted Morris announced the list of players yesterday after watching his Dominion champions breeze through a 90-minute signal drill. Unable to go was diminutive Chuck (Red) Camilleri, rugged little quarterback who suffered a fractured pelvis in a scrimmage Wednesday night.

Also on the injured list was backfielder Phil Carr-Harris, laid up with a severe charley-horse.

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland Jockey Club announced Thursday that Edward Rudolf Blind, 40-year-old native of Vancouver, B.C., has been appointed head starter at Laurel and Pimlico race tracks.

Blind, who has been working as an assistant to starter George Cassidy at New York tracks, takes up his new duties at Laurel Oct. 1.

Ulster Charge D.F.A. With Laxity; Ask Rules Revision

TORONTO (CP) — The situation which saw Toronto's Ulster United booted out of Dominion Cup soccer competition at the playoff stage is to be threshed out at the annual meeting of the Dominion Football Association in Montreal Monday.

A showdown appeared a certainty after the Ulster executive last night called on the D.F.A. for a review of the circumstances under which disciplinary action was taken against Ulster by the D.F.A. for using outside left Johnny Marshall after he had been declared ineligible. The review would be made from a committee with Ontario and Quebec members excluded.

Ulster also recommended clarification of certain rules, especially those dealing with submission of lists of players. Some of the present 20-year-old rules are not being followed by the association executive itself, President Art Halliwell of Ulster charged in a statement last night.

The Ulster case stems from the team's action in using Marshall against Montreal's Carsteel in the eastern Canada playoffs when he had not been transferred the required number of days before the first game here.

SECRETARY OVERRULED

Carsteel's protest was rejected by John Russell of Vancouver, acting secretary of the D.F.A. Russell's decision was overruled by Robert Walker of Montreal, D.F.A. acting president, who tossed Ulster's initial victory out of the window and ordered the game replayed.

After Marshall again played for Ulster last Saturday and Sunday, Walker ousted the Toronto team from playoff competition.

Ulster officials, while not denying Marshall was ineligible, say laxity on the part of D.F.A. officials is partly to blame for the mix-up. The team had submitted to both the D.F.A. and to Carsteel a player list bearing Marshall's name but no objection was raised at the outset to his inclusion in the lineup, they say.

Mize With 44 Homers Threatens Ruth's Mark

Johnny Mize definitely is aiming his big bat at Babe Ruth's home run record of 60 and if Brooklyn Dodgers or St. Louis Cardinals get in the way, it will be just too bad for their pennant ambitions.

Although publicly he pooh-poohs the idea, the New York Giants' slugging first baseman has his heart set on socking those 60. He feels he has a chance, although he knows it is but an outside one.

Mize has 44 to his credit, counting his circuit clout yesterday which enabled the Giants to defeat the Cardinals for the second straight time, 6 to 5. Mize currently is five games ahead of the pace Ruth set in his record-breaking 1927 season.

Mize' round-tripper gave the Giants 180 for the season, only two shy of the major league record set by New York Yankees in 1936.

The Dodgers gained a full game on the Redbirds by defeating Chicago Cubs 6 to 2 at Ebbets Field. They finished off Hank Wyse with four runs in the first inning and went on to win their first game from the Cubs in their last five meetings.

BRAVES WIN PAIR

The third-place Boston Braves moved within eight games of first and one of second by taking both ends of a doubleheader from Cincinnati Reds 8 to 7 and 3 to 2 in Boston. The Braves had to go 16 innings to win the first game, then played only 5½ innings of the second game which was halted by darkness.

Schoolboy Rowe pitched Philadelphia Phils into a virtual seventh-place tie with Pittsburgh by shutting out the Pirates 7 to 0 in Philadelphia. The Pirates still lead in percentages by two points.

Manager Steve O'Neill of Detroit Tigers levied a $250 fine on Hal Newhouser after the Tigers' ace hurler refused to leave the mound when O'Neill signalled him that he was through in the third inning of the game against Boston Red Sox. The Red Sox won 13 to 3. Newhouser was socked for nine hits in 2⅔ innings to absorb his 15th defeat of the season. He has won 13.

Pitcher Joe Haynes won his own game when he singled in the winning run in the 12th inning as Chicago White Sox defeated the Indians 4 to 2 in a night game in Cleveland.

14,000 Pheasants For Release In B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Provincial game commissioner Frank Butler announced today that 14,000 pheasants would possibly be released in British Columbia this year.

Total for last year was 9,223, but under an increased budget the game heads were buying every available bird this season. To date, 7,690 had been liberated, mainly on the lower mainland, with 2,400 more "packaged" and ready for distribution in the next few days.

In the interior, where birds are more plentiful, 889 have been planted, with 600 more to go.

MIMICO WINNER

HAMILTON (CP)—Two goals in quick succession at the end of a 10-minute overtime period gave Mimico Mounties a 14 to 2 victory over Hamilton Tigers in the first game of a best-of-five series in the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior playoffs.

The winning goals were scored by Ike Hildebrand and Hewitt. Next game of the series is at Mimico Saturday night.

HORSES GUARANTEED

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP)—Dr. J. G. Catlett, examining veterinarian for all New York racing tracks, said Thursday there were at least 30 thoroughbreds under observation at Saratoga for possible swamp fever, a disease among race horses now centred in upper New England.

Dr. Catlett said the horses were under quarantine.

Lacrosse Leaders Seek Better Deal For B.C. Juniors

VANCOUVER (CP)—Officials of the British Columbia Lacrosse Association today joined Lyle Barr of Vancouver, first vice-president of the Canadian Lacrosse Association, in a drive to get "a better deal" for B.C. junior players who will travel east next month in search of the Minto Cup and the Dominin junior boxla title.

The B.C. lacrosse heads reported that the B.C. youngsters would be forced to play sudden-death games in Winnipeg and Montreal immediately after long train rides. They said they had wired Gene Dopp, Toronto, president of the C.L.A., asking for best-of-three series in Montreal and Winnipeg.

"It looks like a gang-up in the east to me," said Ben Morley, B.C.L.A. secretary. "Dopp admits that he didn't consult us or Barr nor the Manitoba and Quebec officials in the matter."

Constable Testifies He Bargained With Physician To Sell Goods For Narcotics

A Royal Canadian Mounted Police officer, at the preliminary hearing of Dr. James P. Vye, charged with the illegal sale of narcotics, related in police court today how he bargained with the Victoria physician to exchange stolen goods for morphine tablets.

Under questioning by Attorney-General Gordon Wismer, Constable D. G. Dowey of the Narcotics Branch, R.C.M.P., Vancouver, told the court how he posed as an addict and shoplifter in order to obtain morphine tablets from Dr. Vye.

He said he first met the accused in his office in the Bank of Toronto Building on Douglas Street on May 16, and asked the accused for morphine tablets.

"He told me he was in need of several articles, especially a lady's watch, and that he would pay me for the same with narcotics," stated the constable.

"The accused told me that one-quarter of a grain of morphine sold for $5," he added. "In other words, a grain would cost me $20."

The witness testified that on the legal market a grain of morphine sold for 14 cents.

The witness went on to say that he informed the accused he was going to Vancouver and that he intended to return to Victoria and would try to get him a watch.

"The accused told me that if I could also get a good pair of shoes I could bring those up."

The witness said that on June 14 he purchased a 17-jewel watch which cost him $37 from a jewelry store in Vancouver. He contacted the doctor on his return to Victoria and was escorted into the consultation office.

"He locked the door of his office," related the constable. "I asked him if he remembered me. He answered: 'I don't think so'."

"I told him who I was and informed him I was on my way to Nanaimo on a job," he went on to say. "I told him I had the watch and had stolen it while the clerk was not watching."

Constable Dewey testified that the doctor gave him a grain and one-half of morphine for the watch.

BROUGHT A STOVE

After receiving the drug, the policeman said he talked to the doctor about a job he was about to do in Nanaimo with a friend. He told the accused that he would try to steal a pressure cooker or a stove for him while he was in the city.

He answered: "I can always do with anything. Beggars can't be choosers," stated the witness.

The witness said that on June 18 he brought to the doctor a stove' "Handy Chef" and was given eight quarter-grain tablets for the article.

The constable related a conversation he had with the doctor with regard to a theft he said he had attempted at Nanaimo.

"I told him that we had failed to carry out a safe-cracking job," he said, "but I had managed to get the oven in a store by stuffing it into a bag when no one was looking.

"When I got the morphine," stated the witness, "the accused told me he really had to scrounge to get the stuff as it was very hard to get."

The witness related that he pretended he was very disappointed that he was unable to get the doctor the oven which went with the small stove, but that he would try to get one for him in Vancouver.

The constable said that on July 19 he returned to Victoria and brought the oven to the doctor and was again given morphine tablets.

"I told him I was returning to have another attempt at the job at Nanaimo," he stated.

TALKED OF EVADING POLICE

The witness also told the court numerous conversations he had with the doctor with regard to stealing and ways and means of evading the police.

"He told me you had to be brazen in order to get away with anything," he stated, "and that eternal vigilance was the price of liberty."

Constable H. E. Hazell of the R.C.M.P. told the court of accompanying Dowey to Dr. Vye's office twice in one day while another R.C.M.P. officer, Cpl. J. W. B. Watson, waited down the street.

The first visit was made in the morning with Constable Dowey carrying a small electric oven to the doctor's waiting room. Dr. Vye took Constable Dowey into his consultation room while Constable Hazell remained in the waiting room.

On Constable Dowey's return to the waiting room, the witness continued, they went outside and Constable Dowey ascertained that the other officer, who no longer had the oven with him, had no narcotics in his possession.

On the second visit, made in the early afternoon, Constable Hazell said, Constable Dowey came out from the doctor's consultation room, and on going to a washroom, showed him a blue paper package containing four white pills.

Mr. Wismer concluded the case for the Crown with Constable Hazell's evidence.

The accused had no statement to make and Magistrate Hall remanded the case to Saturday morning.

3 More Polio Cases

June Maintains Position As Month Of Most Marriages

June maintained its tradition as the month for marriages in British Columbia this year, the division of vital statistics reported today.

The largest number of marriages recorded during any month this year were registered in June, the division reported. The total was 1,146.

The June total this year, however, was not as high as the June total for last year when 1,206 marriages were registered. The rate per 1,000 population for the first six months of 1947 is 13.75, compared with the June, 1946, rate of 15.41.

A slight decrease in the birth rate from the two previous months was recorded in June of this year, but the total of 1,965 births registered was ahead of the June, 1946, total of 1,707. Total births for the first six months of the year was 12,138, an increase of 24.15 per cent over the similar total for 1946.

The division reported a slight decrease in June death rate this year, the rate being 8.38 compared with 9.11 per 1,000 population during June of last year.

Divorces were also down during June of this year from June, 1946, decrees totaling 197 last June compared with 245 during June of last year. During the first six months of this year 1,041 divorces have been granted, compared with 1,105 during the same period of last year.

"Adoption figures indicate a continued increase, the total for June being 59," the division reported. "This compares with a total of 40 during June, 1946. However, legitimations decreased considerably during June. There were 12 compared with 27 legitimations during June of last year."

Changes of name granted in June of this year totaled 29 compared with 30 granted during June, 1946.

Infant Mortality

The division of vital statistics reported today a substantial increase in the infant mortality rate in June of this year over June, 1946.

During last year 60 deaths of infants of less than one year were recorded, compared with 45 during the same month of 1946. The rate per 1,000 live births for June of this year was 30.53 compared with 26.35 during June, 1946.

The maternal mortality rate continued low in June of this year, only two deaths being recorded compared with five in the previous June.

Bus Drivers Seeking Strike Vote Permit

EDMONTON (CP) — Union officials representing some 540 Edmonton streetcar and bus drivers today sought permission from the Alberta government to take a strike vote after the civic employees had voted against the city's latest wage increase offer.

"This is our only action at the present time," a union official said, "although we feel satisfied there will be a settlement."

Honor Postmaster Gardiner On Half Century Of Service

GEORGE H. GARDINER . . . on retirement leave

Half a century in postal work, 33 years of it spent at Victoria, concluded for George H. Gardiner, Victoria's postmaster, this afternoon, as he was presented with a walnut library desk by the staff, at a ceremony in the post office prior to his retirement Sept. 1.

The man with the slight Scottish burr and slow smile, who has seen the Victoria office grow from a $182,000 business to a near $1,000,000 one, since he first came here in 1914, will leave his quiet high-ceilinged room on the post office's main floor on Saturday. He will have six months' retirement leave before his successor is appointed.

The majority of the 184 members of the city's postal staff gathered on the main floor to watch the presentation made by John B. Sinclair, who has been appointed acting postmaster for six months.

"Mr. Gardiner has given long and devoted service to the interest of the post office in Victoria," said Mr. Sinclair as he referred to the former's association over some 49 years with the postal departments of Britain and Canada.

"Throughout the length and breadth of Canada probably no post office official has been so self-sacrificing in his devotion to his duties," Mr. Sinclair continued. "I wish you on behalf of the Victoria post office staff, many happy years in the enjoyment of your retirement."

Miss Emma Gower, the postmaster's secretary, presented Mrs. Gardiner with a basket of flowers, on behalf of the staff. Collector of Customs G. A. Yardley and Fred Dawson, Dominion resident architect, were among the Dominion civil servants who have had long association with Mr. Gardiner, who were invited to the presentation.

STARTED AS MESSENGER

Mr. Gardiner, who was born in Forfar, county of Angus, Scotland, began his postal career in the Old Country as a telegraph messenger in 1897. When he left some six years later he was a sorting clerk and telegraphist.

Coming to Canada in 1904 he got into the post office at Winnipeg "by accident."

"I hadn't intended to continue postal work, but met a friend who said there was work there so I started again," said Mr. Gardiner this morning. "I was senior money order clerk at Winnipeg when I left there 10 years later for Victoria."

When asked why he came out to Canada, he remarked: "Oh, I was just another immigrant."

Coming to Victoria in April of 1914, Mr. Gardiner was appointed assistant postmaster in July of the same year, upon the termination of the retirement leave of Noah Shakespeare.

"The revenue of the Victoria office for the fiscal year ending March 31 of 1914 was $182,000," he said. "Today we are operating on somewhat over $900,000. It is nearly a million dollar business a year.

"There were a little over 100 employees, and today we have 184. The general letter rate for 2 cents and the local rate 1 cent, whereas today the general is 4 cents, local 3, and there is airmail besides. Parcel post to Britain is very heavy now also."

Mr. Gardiner recalled that when he first came here there were no deliveries in Esquimalt or Saanich and only two mail carriers in Oak Bay.

"Deliveries had just started in Oak Bay south of Bowker Avenue," he said. "Now there are seven letter carriers in Esquimalt, 15 in Oak Bay, 18 in Saanich and 44 in the city. In 1914 there were just about 40 for Greater Victoria."

POSTMASTER SINCE 1928

Mr. Gardiner was appointed postmaster in February of 1928 on the retirement of Harry Bishop. He says the public have been most co-operative with postal authorities.

"When I first came we occupied three-fourths of the ground floor, while today we use all the ground floor, all the basement and one-half of the third floor," he said, voicing his approval of plans for a new post office. "Here we are on the outskirts of the business section."

About how he will spend his retirement, Mr. Gardiner has few worries. He is keenly interested in cricket, and is president of the Victoria and District Cricket Association. He will continue to reside at 1273 Hampshire Road with Mrs. Gardiner. There is one daughter, Mrs. R. O. Shaw, who with her husband, Wing Cmdr. Shaw and three children, live in Nova Scotia.

Along about next April, he hopes to be on his way to the Old Country, his first visit since coming to Canada.

In the meantime? Well there is his garden that has been "a little neglected of late. That will have to be put in shape first."

Victoria Aged Pensioners' Association monthly meeting will be held in the lower hall of the First Baptist Church, Tuesday, at 2.

The provincial Department of Lands has informed the City Council that consideration to the protests against the granting of foreshore rights to Frederick J. D. Warren in the vicinity of Selkirk Water will be given when formal application for these rights has been received.

An appeal was made for additional male singers. Practices will be resumed of the "Song of Hiawatha," which is to be given at an early date.

A $40 fine was imposed upon Davis L. Thomas, East Saanich, who was found guilty in Saanich police court Thursday of dangerous driving. Alexander W. Robertson, 2038 New Street, had his driver's license suspended for one year on a similar charge. Peter Littlewood, Marchants Road, was fined $35 for dangerous driving.

The Salvation Army is looking for Otto Vilhelm Bergstrom who resided at 2703 Douglas Street a long time ago. He was born in Finland in 1905, and his mother's name was Edla Kristina Bergstrom. He worked in lumber camps. Anyone with information is asked to get in touch with Maj. Richard Shaw, 525 Johnson Street, or phone G 7612.

Quarterly meeting of the Royal Society of St. George will be held Sept. 10, by special arrangement, at St. Michael's School auditorium, Oak Bay. A dramatic program has been arranged which promises to be of unusual interest. The meeting commences at 8. K. C. Symons, the president, will welcome new members.

Government Rejects Civil Servants' Bid For 5-Day Work Week

The B.C. Provincial Government Employees' Association provincial executive will meet in Vancouver immediately to decide what action may be taken following a refusal of the provincial government to grant three of the association's requests to improve working conditions and wage scales of the provincial civil servants.

A. C. Bennett, assistant general secretary of the association, said Thursday night the meeting would be called. This announcement followed receipt of the government's decision by Mr. Bennett and H. A. Carney, secretary of the Victoria branch of the association.

The provincial government turned down the association's request for a five-day week for civil servants employed in offices and for a boost in the cost-of-living bonus to bring it in line with the Dominion Bureau of Statistics' indices of living costs throughout the Dominion.

The association's plan called for increasing the daily hours of work and the work week but cutting the work week from five and one-half days to five days.

The government, it was learned, granted the association's request for a revocable check-off of association dues as provided in the Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act, 1947.

Affected by the government's decisions are 5,000 civil servants and "outside" employees, 3,700 of whom are members of the A.F.L.-affiliated association.

Food, Kiddies' Clothes, Nylons Lost By Sampep Crew In Fire

PORT ALBERNI (Special) — Many personal losses were suffered by the crew and officers of the Ss. Sampep, 10,000-ton freighter gutted in Monday's wharf fire at Port Alberni.

Nylon stockings, shoes, kiddies' wear and hard-to-get foodstuffs the men were taking home to loved ones were completely destroyed. One seaman lost his medals from World War I and his dental plates. Most of the crew lost identification cards, food and clothing ration books and personal documents of all kinds.

Some of the officers lost personally owned sextants and binoculars, besides numerous other items.

Charts, radio and navigational equipment valued at many hundreds of dollars were lost. The intense heat gutted the entire superstructure and melted a thick coat of pitch laid on deck and bulkheads as a wartime precaution.

The ship's men have high praise for the local firefighters, who were hampered by smoke and by ammonia escaping from storage batteries. Smouldering mattresses became a danger and had to be thrown overboard.

Firemen fought the blaze all night and some were still aboard Tuesday afternoon. Port Alberni Fire Chief W. Venables directed his men at the wharf and ship all night and was sent home Tuesday afternoon exhausted.

PORT ALBERNI—Preparation of two by-laws, outlining a new trunk highway through the city and construction of an additonal water reservor, was approved by the Port Alberni city council this week. Both will be presented to the voters in the fall.

The road by-law, providing a second surfaced artery for the city's heavy traffic, will present an estimated cost of $85,000, while cost of the water project is estimated at $40,000.

Estimates Of Sampep Damage Not Known

PORT ALBERNI—Accurate estimates of damage aboard Ss. Sampep, freighter burned in the wharf fire at Port Alberni Monday, will not likely be announced for several days yet, according to officials here.

Adjusters left the city and it is believed a thorough examination of the ship will be made either at Victoria or Vancouver. Both Yarrows of Victoria and North Vancouver shipyards are reported interested in repairing the vessel.

Cause of the wharf fire has not been determined, but investigations are proceeding.

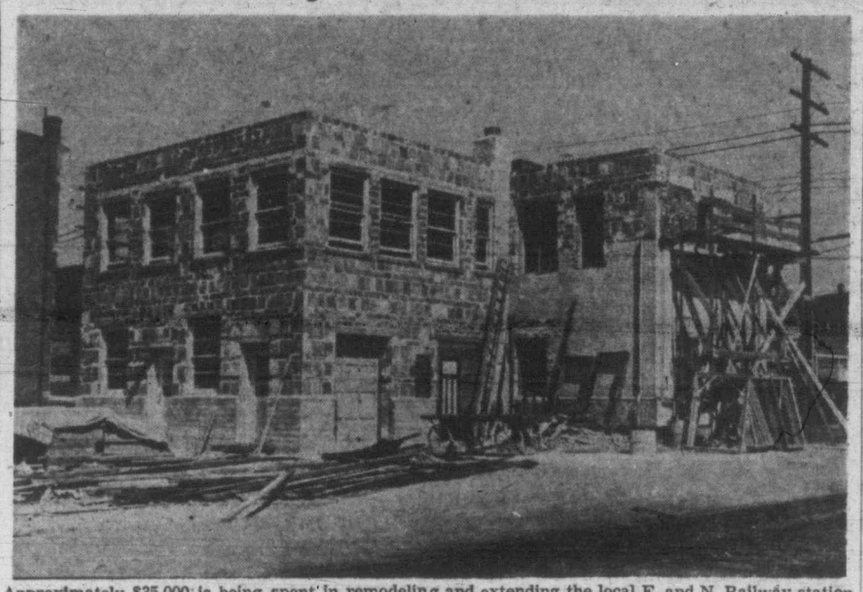

Accidental Death Verdict At Inquest

PORT ALBERNI — Death of W. Grumback, killed in a logging accident near Port Alberni last week, was termed accidental by a coroner's jury here Monday.

Mr. Grumback, former owner of the Tidewater Lumber Co., died almost instantly of a fractured skull when struck by a log at his camp on Barclay Sound, near Port Alberni.

The Tidewater Lumber Co. is one of the smaller operations hard hit by the assembly wharf fire here Monday.

Extensive Remodeling Of E. and N. Station Here

Approximately $35,000 is being spent in remodeling and extending the local E. and N. Railway station on Store Street, shown above in the stages of reconstruction. The whole front of the old building is being remodeled and an extension is being made at the rear. An additional floor is also being constructed. All local offices of the railway will be moved to the building on its completion.

At Sooke Elementary School, P. L. Murray will again be principal. Two new teachers will be E. Pollard and Mrs. P. Price, primary teacher. Grades 1 to 6 attend this school.

Students will travel 19 miles by bus from Jordan River, Shirley, Muir Creek and Otter Point. On the other side they will come seven miles from North Sooke to attend these two schools in Sooke School District No. 62.

To conform with other schools, students who have been on the mainland will be required to remain away from these schools two weeks.

At the meeting called by the Interior Dairymen's Association, representatives of producer and marketing organizations, government officials and members of the staff of the University of B.C. voted 13 to 1 in favor of organizing the new body.

A. G. Lambrick, former reeve of Saanich, was appointed Vancouver Island representative on the organizing committee. Others named were Bob Skelton, president, Interior Dairymen's Association, Salmon Arm, and Acton Kilby, Vancouver.

GROWING UP WITH CHILDREN

The principal reason why parents and children are in a perpetual conflict is because they do not belong to the same generation and, to paraphrase Mr. Kipling, East is East and West is West, and so is youth and age, and never the twain shall meet.

Fathers and mothers will bitterly deny this. They live in the hallucination that they are still youngsters themselves and that, at any rate, when they were boys and girls they didn't have the silly ideas and want to do the crazy things that their bobby-soxers and pipsqueaks do. As they recall their salad days, they were good little guys who always minded mama and papa, and loved to spend their evenings at home playing tiddledy-winks or reading an Alger book, and who no more thought of stepping out of an evening or using lipstick than they did of embarking on a career of wild adventure.

Probably no such infant phenomenon ever existed, but parents think it did and that he or she was it. That is why they have so little understanding of their children, and why they fight so incessantly and hopelessly with them. For few fathers and mothers grow up with their children and realize that the child world has changed even more than the adult world has.

DIVERGENT OPINIONS

No parents would expect to squeeze their husky 'teen-age kids into the Buster Brown costumes they wore in the nursery. They would be heartbroken if a son or daughter had so little intelligence that he or she never got above the third grade in school. But there are thousands of devoted fathers and mothers who try to wish a perpetual babyhood on their children and who deny them the right to use either their brains or their muscles, or to develop any of the qualities of courage or initiative that they are going to need most in life.

There is no other one thing over which so many tears are shed and so many hearts broken as there is over the struggle that takes place between parents and children in the adolescent period, when the youngsters feel that they are entitled to a little liberty and father and mother are determined they shall not have it.

When Johnny begins to sprout a mustache he feels that father should not ring the curfew on him. Mamie at 16 is boy crazy, but she is not allowed to have dates. And the brawl is on that alienates parents and children and that makes the boys and girls, who would like to be honest and truthful in their dealings with their fathers and mothers, turn into sneaks and liars.

TREATED AS GROWN-UPS

Much of the juvenile delinquency that we deplore is the direct result of two things. The first is of parents not realizing that in an era in which everything else has been speeded up age has also been speeded up, and that the average boy and girl in their 'teens are as old and worldly wise and experienced as their fathers and mothers were in their twenties and are entitled to be treated as grown-ups, instead of moronic infants.

The second reason why girls and boys leave home as soon as they can is to escape parental tyranny and get the freedom without which life has no flavor.

What we need are parents who grow up with their children.

West Indies Seen As Part Of Canada By Club Speaker

"Everything Canada needs to round out her natural resources may be found in the British West Indies," Jules Preudhomme, K.C., and a former resident of the Indies, told members of the Oak Bay Kiwanis Club at a meeting Thursday in the Beach Hotel.

This fact was but one of many points outlined by Mr. Preudhomme to be advantageous to a proposal of making the British West Indies a part of the Dominion of Canada. "The scheme has distinct possibilities and may come to pass very soon," he declared.

Much sooner to come about, Mr. Preudhomme stated, would be the attainment of Dominion status by all British colonies in the Caribbean group, including Barbados, Jamaica, Honduras, Trinidad, Tobago, St. Lucia, Grenada, St. Vincent and Dominica.

The centralization of all these islands into a free group under the British Commonwealth will be discussed next month in Trinidad, Mr. Preudhomme said.

Missionary Charges Western World Is Complacent, Callous

The countries of the western world have had so few of the troubles that most countries have had to face that the people here do not understand the seriousness of the problems which others are having to solve at the present time, Dr. R. Gordon Agnew, who for 20 years has served as a missionary to China, told a meeting of the Victoria Rotary Club Thursday.

"In a relative sense," Dr. Agnew said, "the war meant only prosperity and dominance to a good percentage of Canadians.

"I find complacency here although I see no reason for it—not while the term 'peace and goodwill' is not applicable to seven-eighths of the world."

Dealing with the situation in China, the missionary charged that the civil war now being waged could have been prevented by the United States.

"The American government could very easily have come forth in August, 1945, and offered supplies and assistance to China in return for the establishment of a coalition government," he said. "The Chinese would have accepted these terms.

"Instead, they have fostered war by openly backing one side with arms, supplies and transportation to fight the other. They have gone so far as to train 40 divisions of soldiers."

Dr. Agnew argued that the main reason for such action is that the western world fails to value peace. "We put our political security at the top of the list and peace at the bottom. Yet, we claim we want peace more than anything else in the world."

Continuing, the speaker declared the western world had become callous. To back this charge, he cited the first bombing of civilians by a German zeppelin during the Great War. "About 450 persons were killed and the Christian world of the west was shocked," he said.

During the World War, he stated, an atomic bomb was dropped on Japan and 78,000 persons were killed in one city. "Yet, the Christian world of the west rejoiced."

"We were assured of peace when we dropped those atomic bombs," the missionary declared. "We did not need to drop them."

"Yet, of course, there was a lot of money wrapped up in them and it was intensely interesting to see what happened," he said.

There is a great change coming over the earth, Dr. Agnew continued. It is a change of policy from old imperialism to internationalism.

"At last all races of the world will have to be recognized as equal. No longer will the white dominate the yellow, the black and the brown. It is a dangerous period to be sure. But the whites can survive if they learn to accept and live with others."

"If the transition is a success," Dr. Agnew stated, "there will be an era of tremendous possibilities."

Legion To Inspect T.B. Pavilion At Jubilee Hospital

Victoria and District Canadian Legion Zone Council Thursday appointed a committee to work in co-operation with the Florence Nightingale Chapter, I.O.D.E., in looking over the T.B. Pavilion, Royal Jubilee Hospital, with a view of correcting some of the deficiencies.

Those appointed were Miss Joe Harman, C. A. Gill, and Carl Fallas.

The meeting also decided to inaugurate a campaign for the construction of more dwellings in Victoria to alleviate the housing shortage. Permission is being sought to send speakers to address Oak Bay Community Club and Kiwanis Club, Saanich Board of Trade and the Ratepayers' Association for Saanich.

Members also decided to ask the federal authorities "why Canadians cannot have a butter substitute made available at a fair and reasonable price."

Following a discussion on the subject, members felt margarine should be made available to the low income group. It was pointed out that the Canadian Medical Association Journal was quoted as stating that good margarine was superior to butter from economic and nutritional aspects.

Seven sets of poliomyelitis equipment were sent by the Quebec Command of the Legion to Vancouver to help cope with polio outbreaks there, it was announced at the meeting. Members were also informed that the British Columbia Command of the Legion intended to start a campaign for funds to purchase further equipment.

6 Injured In Pile-up Of 2 Buses, 7 Autos

CHEHALIS, Wash. (AP) — A Pacific Highway collision involving two North Coast Line buses and seven automobiles late Thursday afternoon sent five persons to the hospital here and one other was taken by ambulance for private medical treatment.

The accident, in which a northbound bus and one car left the highway, occurred where a highway turn has been the scene of seven deaths in the past five years.

Police reports indicated the accident occurred when a car swerved sharply back into its lane after passing a bus.

3 Casualties In 'Salty O'Rourke'

A day's work on location at a San Fernando Valley ranch in scenes for Paramount's "Salty O'Rourke" proved a painful experience for three of the picture's principals. On the casualty list were Alan Ladd, William Demarest and young Stanley Clements.

It began when Clements, playing a jockey in the film, fell from his mount — his third tumble during production. The jar rattled "Stash's" teeth, but actual damage was confined to the young players dignity and wardrobe. Later the same horse stepped on Demarest's foot during a scene. Bill came out with no broken bones, but with aching toes and a limp.

Ladd's trouble developed when a wasp stung him on the elbow while the troupe was lunching on the grass. Alan wore a poultice bandage inside his coat sleeve for the rest of the work before the camera. In the film, opening today at the Rio Theatre, Ladd co-stars with Gail Russell.

PLAZA THEATRE

Brilliant actor of both stage and screen, Douglass Montgomery is known as the man who will not sign movie contracts. His film work has been sandwiched between New York stage appearances. The war interrupted his theatrical career. And then, by request of the Canadian Air Ministry, his theatrical career interrupted his role in the war. An officer in a Canadian infantry regiment, he was given leave of absence by the Air Ministry to play Johnny Hollis, a flier, in the production, "The Way to the Stars," currently at the Plaza Theatre.

ESTHER WILLIAMS, playing an unusual role of a feminine matador, is injured in the bullring in "Fiesta," technicolor production now at the Capitol Theatre. She is aided by Akim Tamiroff and Ricardo Montalban.

OAK BAY THEATRE

Wasp-waisted glamour belles of the 1880's would have envied Katharine Hepburn had the star lived in that period. For Miss Hepburn has one of Hollywood's smallest waists—19 inches.

The actress portrays a St. Louis beauty of that era in "The Sea of Grass," current attraction on the Oak Bay screen, and she wears dresses designed for hourglass figures without the popular lacings worn at the turn of the century, an achievement today!

Spencer Tracy is reunited with Miss Hepburn in "The Sea of Grass."

Claudette Colbert Saw Good Omen

Claudette Colbert saw a good omen in the production schedule of "The Egg and I," coming Monday to the Plaza Theatre, in which she co-stars with Fred MacMurray.

The first scene shot is also the first scene of the picture.

This, in Hollywood production procedure, is most unusual. The last time Miss Colbert encountered such an irregularity the picture was "It Happened One Night," which won her the 1934 Academy Award.

'Apache Rose' Musical Western

Roy Rogers owns a wildcat oil-drilling company and discovers oil on a large but rundown estate belonging to Carlos Vega and his cousin, Rosa Vega. Carlos has become indebted to the owner of a gambling boat, Reed Calhoun.

Rosa Vega is returning from Mexico to prevent her cousin from signing over the ranch. Roy learns that Calhoun is plotting to kill her and, with the aid of Billie Colby, pretty skipper of "The Apache Rose," a coastal supply boat, takes up the fight in her behalf.

"Apache Rose" is showing at the Dominion Theatre.

'Fiesta' Now Showing On Capital Screen

A faithful portrayal of the scenic grandeur, the traditions and the home life of Mexico forms the background of "Fiesta," spectacular new M-G-M musical filmed in technicolor and opening today at the Capitol Theatre.

Included in the cast are Esther Williams, who swims in one of Mexico's lakes, and who also dons the garb of a matador; Ricardo Montalban, Mexican film star under contract to M-G-M in his first performance for American audiences; John Carroll as the romantic lead opposite Miss Williams.

ATLAS THEATRE

Still maintaining his handsome dignity, Ronald Colman recently came out of a two-year self-imposed retirement to play the surprising title role in Twentieth Century-Fox's rollicking film version of John P. Marquand's "The Late George Apley," which is now at the Atlas Theatre. His role is that of a staid, prim and circumspect resident of Boston, who learns about life from vivacious Peggy Cummins, sensational young British newcomer to the screen.

NOT . . . that it matters much anymore, but I'm glad that VIOLENCE is leaving the dance floor. Because the odd time that I DO step out, I've never known what it's all about. The G.F. too, —this slant does share, the she used to think me her Mauraustaire. Those were the days I went to her head, just like Ginger, went for Fred. But in that boogie-woogie when the lad swings his pet, both faces stream out in a sticky sweat. So I've always thot in this kinda dance, it was the farthest thing from romance. Because if YOU pay any ATTENTION to the Ads, at all, for NO. B.O. gal will any swain fall. And the first thing from violence U usually get, . . well let's put it nicely . . . 'tis perspi-sweat. And while they're turning on the heat, the floor groans with the beat-beat-beat. To the music, noisy hot 'n fast, with a screaming clarinet 'n trumpet blast. With everyone frenzied outa their heads, to the murderous beating of sorry drumheads.

LOVELY-LAWSON . . . yes here is the "Lovely-Lawson" Chesterfield Set . . . with its deener seat, the set U see pictured in all the glossy magazines. This first one we had covered in a beige conventional tapestry . . . may we show you???

YES . . . I'm glad that serenity once more, will glide demurely about the floor. To a well-defined rhythmic swing, as new tunes & old, we'll hum-'n-sing. With unique arrangements, orchestras that blend, instead of that brass they used to "send." And couples floating gracefully around, woodwinds soft with a throaty sound. This transition will soon B complete, as sanity returns to jittery feet. Then again the G.F. I'll squeeze, as we strouse again . . . low "V 'an ease."

HUMBER BROTHERS furniture, in the Heaney Warehouse, View St., . . . below Gov't. St. Opp. Courthouse.

JUST WHEN I THINK nobody reads me, someone encourages me all over again . . . so now you know why I keep this up . . . anyhoo . . . I picked up 3 lovlies this morning, and the red headed one said . . . "U know I read U every day . . . you gotta be clever to write such stupid stuff." . . . Humph???

WANTS GARAGE or old barn . . . can anyone help out Mr. G. Howard . . . he needs some place to store old newspapers which he collects in aid of the Solarium . . . if U can help him out, phone G-3544 any place in the City limits he says will be gratefully O.K.

Seals Come From Behind To Defeat Seattle In 10th

The fighting San Francisco Seals were again only 2½ games back of the Coast League-leading Los Angeles Angels today.

The Seals let Seattle score three runs in the first of the 10th last night, then came back with a four-run blast started by Hugh Luby's homer and ended by Ted Jenning's pinch single, to take a 6 to 5 thriller. Jack Brewer went the route for the win. Bill Posedel, second of three Rainier pitchers, was the loser.

Los Angeles was soundly whipped by third-place Portland, 7 to 1, as old submariner Ad Liska spun a six-hitter. Oakland, the fourth contender in the free-for-all race, failed to gain. The Oaks bowed to Sacramento, 7 to 5, as their two-run ninth inning rally fell short.

Hollywood, rising to sixth place, made it three out of four over San Diego, whipping the Padres behind Ed Albost, 7 to 4. Albosta allowed seven hits and fanned nine.

No Invitations Yet For Royal Wedding

LONDON (CP) — A Buckingham Palace source said today invitations for the wedding of Princess Elizabeth and Lieut. Philip Mountbatten likely will be sent out in the next few weeks, but the list is not yet complete.

"We have to give people from abroad lots of time to make travel arrangements," a spokesman said, "but I don't think any invitations have yet been sent."

Americans Want No 'Incidents' During Cup Tennis

NEW YORK (AP) — Figuring that the international situation is troubled enough without risking further "incidents," American tennis officials have worked overtime to see that everything runs off smoothly in the Davis Cup challenge round against Australia starting tomorrow at suburban Forest Hills.

Jack Bromwich, veteran Australian star, will be permitted to strew tennis balls all over the court if he feels like it, and if one of the visiting players has a foot fault called against him it will not be because he has not been adequately and carefully instructed how to avoid the penalty.

Bromwich, who hits his drives from the right side with both hands grasping his racquet, caused a brief but violent storm just before the cup matches at Melbourne last winter by his habit of dropping the second ball on the court after completing his first service.

One of the first things that Roy Cowling, non-playing captain of the Aussies, was told upon his arrival at Forest Hills was that it had been decided that Bromwich would be permitted to play in the coming matches "exactly as he played in 1939."

The draw for tomorrow's opening singles matches was scheduled for today at Forest Hills. The same four names were due to be dropped in the big cup as at Melbourne last winter—Ted Schroeder and Jack Kramer for the United States and Bromwich and Dinny Pails for Australia.

The doubles teams will not be announced until after the first two singles are completed tomorrow, but their composition is no secret. Barring a broken ankle or a brainstorm, it will be Kramer and Schroeder against Bromwich and Colin Long.

Police Of Cairo Battle Rioters

CAIRO (AP)—Police swinging clubs battled demonstrators marching through streets of Cairo today shouting "Revolt, down with imperialism, long live our brothers the policemen."

Two persons were reported wounded slightly by police fire.

The demonstration was a new protest of the fact the United Nations' Security Council had not ordered British troops from the Nile Valley, as Egypt demanded. Three persons were reported killed in a similar riot last week.

The manifestation began with Moslem prayers. Friday is the Mohammedan Sabbath.

Nearly 1,000 policemen lined Al Azhar Square, where thousands of Moslems went to five mosques for noon prayers. The crowds emerged and walked quietly until they passed the police lines. Then they started shouting for revolt.

A truckload of police who tried to intervene was stoned.

Small Fruit Survey Nearing Completion

VANCOUVER—Information of great value to British Columbia small fruits growers and shippers is now being tabulated at the University of British Columbia department of agriculture, the president's office revealed today.

Field work on the survey was completed during the summer, when data was obtained from 175 farmers. Funds for the survey, donated by Safeway Stores Ltd. in co-operation with the Empress Manufacturing Company and the Fraser Valley Growers, were formally accepted by the board of governors of the University Aug. 25.

The group contributed a total of $2,000, and the only condition attached to the gift was that the money be used in a study of the small fruits industry. A preliminary survey—"An Economic Study of the Small Fruit Industry in British Columbia," was prepared last year.

Horse Electrocuted

MIDLAND (CP) — When a horse stepped on a manhole cover here Thursday it was electrocuted. A short circuit in the town's electric wiring system had charged the cover, and the animal's steel shoes acted as a conductor.

Funeral Takes Place Of Planned Wedding

SEATTLE (AP)—Funeral services for Denise Noelle McCarthy, former Canadian Red Cross overseas worker, were to be held in Edmonton today in place of the marriage she had planned happily for tomorrow. Relatives said her wedding gown would be her funeral dress.

Miss McCarthy, formerly of Seattle and more recently of Vancouver, B.C., died Wednesday of poliomyelitis, which had developed after an appendicitis operation.

She was to have become the bride of Capt. William D. de Costa, M.C., Merritt, B.C., where their honeymoon cottage was furnished and awaiting them. De Costa, who met Miss McCarthy in England during the war, had just returned from Alaska.

Her father, Dr. Phillip Sydney McCarthy of Seattle and Victoria, had returned from England to give the bride away at the ceremony. Both men were at her bedside when death came.

The 25-year-old woman held a commendation from Gen. Eisenhower for her rescue work after the 1944 bombing of the American Service Club in London. She was born in Victoria, B.C., attended school in Seattle and graduated from the University of London.

Shirts Burned

TORONTO (CP) — Thousands of sheets and shirts were destroyed today in a predawn fire that gutted the United Superior Laundry Co. Ltd. plant in West Toronto. Damage to the building is estimated at $30,000.

ROY ROGERS AND DALE EVANS appear in a scene from Republic's "Apache Rose," now showing at the Dominion Theatre.

Paper Asks Extra Rations For Miners Cut During Strike

LONDON (CP) — A swift-spreading miners' strike in the Yorkshire coalfields brought a bitter demand from the Conservative Daily Graphic today for the government to slash the extra rations allotted pitworkers.

Newspaper reports on the number of men idle varied from 14,000 up to the London Daily Herald's pit-by-pit count of 27,582.

The Herald, Labor, said 14 mines, which normally produce 17,130 tons of vitally needed coal weekly, were affected.

The Graphic editorially urged the government to "withdraw at once all extra rations" from the striking miners, who get a double portion of meat as well as the veavy workers' additional bread ration of three loaves weekly.

The Liberal News Chronicle, asserting editorially that the Grimethorpe pit, where the strike began, had had 26 previous unofficial stoppages this year, blamed a "malcontent minority."

ORDER RESISTED

The walkout, which spread from three pits Thursday, began 18 days ago at the Grimethorpe colliery, where the National Coal Board had ordered 140 men in one seam to mine two feet more of coal daily and ordered their contracts terminated when they refused to comply. The striking miners walked out in sympathy with their dismissed colleagues.

One miner said the walkout was voted because the men saw the increased coal-face quota making some miners surplus at Grimethorpe with the possibility they would be "directed" to other pits. "The men don't want to be directed elsewhere," he said.

Blast Cuts Off Power

BOONVILLE, Ind. (AP)—A boiler explosion in the municipal light and power plant Thursday night injured two firemen and cut off an electric current in this city of 5,000.

The injured are Ora Wingate, 38, reported in serious condition, and Richard Axton, treated for burns.

City firemen reported a pressure tank of the main boiler blew up and demolished 100 yards of brick wall.

Officials said it would take days, possibly weeks to restore power to the city.

As citizens stumbled about by candlelight and flashlight, the city council called an emergency session to hunt sources of power.

Pepper Restrictions Lifted After Sept. 1

OTTAWA (CP) — Achoo . . . beg pardon, but just the thought of strong, pre-war pepper coming back to the meal table brings on a sneeze.

Yes, a Prices Board announcement indicated Thursday that after Sept. 1 you should be able to replace your wartime synthetic pepper with the real McCoy—if the manufacturers are ready to co-operate.

On that date all control regulations and restrictions on the use, sale and manufacture of pepper will be discounted.

U.B.C. Students Still Lack Housing

VANCOUVER (CP) — More than 3,000 returnng single students to the University of British Columbia campus next month face the most acute housing shortage in the institution's history, an announcement said today.

While not confined only to unmarried students, Dr. G. M. Shrum, director of emergency housing, declared that previous reports saying couples would enjoy adequate facilities were "far too optimistic."

Of the expected 4,000 out-of-town students registering this fall, only 800 can be accommodated in Acadia and Fort Camp residences. Dr. Shrum warned that freshmen's chances of getting into dormitories are slim.

"First-year students, unfamiliar with the city, are the greatest problem," he declared.

Australia May Have Record Wheat Crop

CANBERRA (Reuter)—Australia may have a record wheat harvest of 220,000,000 bushels this year, officials said today.

The weather is always an uncertain factor, however, and lack of rain in the next few months would destroy all hope of such a good return.

If a record crop were achieved Australia would be able to provide India with all the wheat she needed, subject only to limitations of shipping space.

Sugar From Sawdust

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese Forestry Products Chemical Association said today it had succeeded in making sugar from sawdust and a plant was being built south of Tokyo. The Agriculture and Forestry Ministry, confirming the report, said the sugar thus produced "is a little less sweet than cane sugar."

Plus Marks In Minor Fractions

NEW YORK (AP)—Stocks negotiated a creeping recovery in today's market with timid short covering accounting for modest gains in most cases.

From the start dealings were among the slowest of the last three years. There were a few jumps of two to three points for "thin" issues but most plus marks were in minor fractions. A number of pivotals also were unchanged or a shade lower near the close.

Canadian issues were slow at noon. Canadian Pacific added ⅛ and Dome Mines ¼. Distillers, Seagrams and Hiram Walker eased ⅛.

You're richer than you think—in household possessions.

They grow on you.

They mount up on you in value week by week, year by year.

Have you recently—or ever—taken a pad and pencil and added up the value of your furniture and clothes and other things in your home—room by room, closet by closet—shelf by shelf?

Do it, and you'll get the shock of your life. It's usually staggering! All of us, who have houses or apartments, accumulate these things slowly—but we can lose them all mighty fast in a fire.

How much would it cost you to replace everything in your home—and start all over from scratch right now?

PROTECTION IS DIRT-CHEAP

Fire insurance on household possessions costs so little that we are foolish to go on as ludicrously uninsured as most of us are.

You read about plenty of fires these days. You, too, can have a pip of a fire any minute.

Ground Recovered By Junior Golds

TORONTO (CP)—Junior golds which had yielded to profit-taking in today's early session of the Toronto Stock Exchange, recovered considerable ground in the afternoon trading to sell around yesterday's closing figures. Industrials were quiet with losses holding the edge. Base metals and western oils were fairly active.

Eldona, the market leader, sold down to $1.80 shortly after the opening but slowly recovered to around its close of $2.24 yesterday, and added to that figure. Issues associated with its activity performed about the same.

On the quiet industrials papers and steels were mixed, foods were up and liquors tended off. Among utilities Bell lost ½ and Brazilian gained ⅜ while C.P.R. was up ¼. Western oils showing were up except for Davies Petroleum and Home.

Toronto Closing Index:
20 golds ..115.91, up 2.20
10 base metals ..83.40, up 0.21
15 western oils 27.01, up 0.68
Total sales, 4,326,000.

Grain

WINNIPEG (CP)—Rye futures prices continued to rise the maximum of 10 cents on Winnipeg grain exchange today on moderate buying by commission houses, locals and American interests.

There was light hedging pressure with rain in the west further delaying marketings. Trading was moderate.

No export business recorded.

CHICAGO (AP)—All wheat contracts moved to new seasonal highs on the Board of Trade today, imparting a firm undertone to other grains. Wheat buying was based on the poor European crop and food situation.

All wheat deliveries except July, 1948, sold about $2.50 while in the spot market No. 2 Red wheat brought $2.60 a bushel.

A persistent demand for oats sent the September contract to a record high at $1.12. Corn encountered selling on reports of rain in Iowa and Illinois, but firmed toward the close.

Shipping Company Taken Over By Toronto Concern

Western Canada Steamships Ltd., formed at the end of the war, is now being taken over by Western Canada Steamships Co. Ltd., with control of the new set-up in Toronto, it is reported.

Officials of the new company, which will have its B.C. head office in Vancouver, will be J. S. D. Tory, president; J. K. F. Miller, vice-president, and A. N. Cowan, secretary-treasurer.

The old company became an outstanding one among Canadian concerns and had 20 freighters of 10,000 tons each, valued at a total of $10,000,000.

The new company has been registered extra-provincially at the Legislative Buildings here. The registration showed capitalization at $4,000,000 and 500,000 shares, no par value.

New Operations In Kootenay Area Raise Coal Output

New strip mining operations in the East Kootenay district caused a substantial jump in British Columbia's coal output last month, the provincial mines department reported today.

Output last month totaled 134,049 long tons, compared with 104,796 tons during the previous July.

Production of coal on Vancouver Island was down by more than 6,000 tons. July output this year was 36,436 long tons, a loss from the July, 1946, total of 42,923 tons.

Chief producers on the island, all operated by Canadian Collieries (D.) Ltd., were Comox Colliery, which last month produced 14,003 long tons, compared with 18,188 long tons during the previous July; No. 10 Mine, South Wellington, which last month raised 17,655 tons, compared with 19,758 tons during the previous July, and White Rapids Mine, which produced 3,921 tons last month, against 3,948 tons in July, 1946.

Output in the East Kootenay district jumped from 59,916 tons in July, 1946, to 93,497 tons last month.

Biggest producer in this district where all mines are operated by the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co. Ltd., was Michel Colliery which produced 57,347 tons last month, compared with 39,763 tons during the previous July. Elk River colliery produced 13,204 tons last month, compared with 20,153 tons in July, 1946.

While no coal was produced at Corbin last year, the Big Showing mine this year yielded 22,946 tons.

Output in the Nicola-Princeton district totaled 3,587 tons last month, compared with 1,215 tons in July, 1946, while output in the northern district last month was 529 tons, compared with 742 tons during the previous July.

New Traffic Signals Not Here Until Late In October

Traffic control signals for Victoria will not be shipped from the factory until late in October, Mayor Percy George was informed today by the manufacturers.

Northern Electric Company, which is supplying the control mechanisms for the new traffic signals, stated it will be the third week in October before shipment can be made. Reason for the delay is the inability to secure certain materials necessary for the manufacture of the controllers, and the materials cannot be substituted.

Canadian General Electric Company, which is supplyng the cable, said its factory stated the cable would be shipped late in September, and transportation time after this will amount to approximately three weeks, bringing the date of arrival in Victoria to the middle of October.

One Woman's Day

By NANCY HODGES

WEATHER 'WANGLING'

ALONG ABOUT THIS TIME of year when we get golden, lovely days, the fog-horns booming out from the Straits remind us that if autumn comes, can winter be far behind?

And, coincident with the fog-horns and other signs of autumn's approach, comes a spate of prophesies about the hard winter we are going to have.

Ever since I first came here over 30 years ago, someone has annually quoted the Indians as forecasting a cold spell, with snow and "all the fixin's."

Why? Because the said Indians have noticed the squirrels hoarding up more acorns than usual—or some other phenomenon of nature which allegedly indicates tough weather ahead.

MAY BE ECONOMIC

BUT, TO THE BEST of my recollection, the same signs have been noticed every year about this time.

Until finally I have come to the conclusion that the squirrels are so busy, not in anticipation of a long, cold spell, but from economic reasons.

They are thrifty little creatures and, like the shrewd housewife, don't believe in allowing good food to go to waste. So they adopt their own method of hoarding up the surplus for the days when fresh fruits and acorns aren't to be come by.

However, apart from all that, it just shows that it isn't easy to prognosticate the weather from Indian signs—or any other signs, it seems to me.

DEFENDS WEATHERMAN

EVIDENTLY THE ASTRONOMERS THINK SO, too. For I recollect that a Saskatchewan expert, who spoke to the local astronomical association here some weeks ago, put in a plea for public patience with the prognosticators.

He explained some of the difficulties of forecasting weather. And he should know, for he was a civilian meteorologist at several R.C.A.F. stations during the war.

So, if the Indians and the meterologists can't be depended upon, it is perhaps a good thing that someone is at last going to do as Mark Twain suggested—do something about the weather, instead of just talking about it.

SYNTHETIC SHOWERS

WHEN I READ some months ago about a flier who went up in the air over the Portland district to make snow which turned into a gentle rainfall, I knew it wouldn't be long before the synthetic weather producers would be on the job.

In drought-parched Arizona, a plane dropped dry ice on a cloud on July 21 and reported that thousands of tons of water fell for more than 25 minutes on the watershed of the Salt River Valley's dwindling reservoirs.

Incidentally, such an experiment might well be the solution of Saanich's summer drought problem—to say nothing of Oak Bay's recent shortage of water for sprinkling purposes.

FARMERS VS. INDIANS

THE FARMERS OF ARIZONA were properly grateful to the scientists who served the synthetic showers.

At the same time they discounted the scoffing of the Hopi Indians, who claimed the rain was the direct result of their age-old prayer ceremonies of July 4.

And attributed the lapse of time to the fact that the cloud had to drift in from a long way.

In my humble opinion, the showers were a combination of two things—science, and what the insurance companies call "an act of God."

'CLIMATOLOGISTS' AS WELL

BE THAT AS IT MAY, while the scientists are going ahead with their experiments in manufacturing weather to suit, another new brand of weatherman has come along.

He calls himself—of all things—a climatologist! And is said to be a seer who can look, not just a few days, but from one to 20 years, ahead to predict weather at a given period.

You say, who wants to know that long ahead? Well, transportation companies, because of fuel problems, as well as lumber, construction and movie companies, farmers and the fishing industry, apparently would like to know.

But when—if ever—the scientists and the climatologists have got the weather down that pat, I can forecast that a lot of people are going to be at a loss for conversation.

Kenya In Port

The British cruiser Kenya paid a brief call at Esquimalt today before leaving this afternoon to sail down the Pacific coast in continuation of her cruise program.

The warship called in here to pick up a hospital case, several mishipmen and one senior officer. She will rejoin the Royal Navy West Indies squadron, to which
